or too complicated to understand and for most people the concepts of sustainability are regarded as quirky peripheral and not essential to everyday life Yet the challenges of sustainability concern the very survival of most species of life on Earth including the human species In order for life as we know it to survive and thrive into the future sustainability must become broadly understood by everyone not just activists or specialists This book offers tools to help make complex systems and nuanced abstract ideas concrete and comprehensible to the broadest range of people The goal of communication and of this book is to build understanding

Solar Technology and Global Environmental Justice Andreas Roos,2023-02-02 Building on insights from ecological economics and philosophy of technology this book offers a novel interdisciplinary approach to understand the contradictory nature of Solar photovoltaic PV technology Solar photovoltaic PV technology is rapidly emerging as a cost effective option in the world economy However reports about miserable working conditions environmentally deleterious mineral extraction and toxic waste dumps corrode the image of a problem free future based on solar power Against this backdrop Andreas Roos explores whether ecologically unequal exchange an asymmetric transfer of labour time and natural resources is a necessary condition for solar PV development He demonstrates how the massive increase in solar PV installation over recent years would not have been possible without significant wage price differences in the world economy notably between Europe North America and Asia and concludes that solar PV development is currently contingent on environmental injustices in the world economy As a solution Roos argues that solar technology is best coupled with strategies for degrowth which allow for a transition away from fossil fuels and towards a socially just and ecologically sustainable future This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of solar power philosophy of technology and environmental justice
