Q.1. Write a short note on Homer as the author' of The Iliad.

Ans. Ancient Greek tradition, as well as a study of the language and style of the poems, indicates that he probably lived and wrote sometime in the eighth or ninth centuries B.C., but no more definite date can be determined. In ancient times, seven different cities claimed the honour of having been his birthplace. None of these assertions can be validated. However, Homer may have come from the island of Chios, on the western coast of Asia Minor - in earlier times, a family of the same name lived there and claimed him as an ancestor, and devoted themselves to the recitation of his works. Whether he came from Chios or not, it is highly probable that Homer was a native and resident of some part of Eastern Greece or Asia Minor, for the dialect he used in his works is that of the Asian Greeks.

Tradition has it that Homer was blind, but the evidence for this idea is unreliable. This evidence is based on the portrayal in the Odyssey of a blind minstrel who sings a poem about the fall of Troy. But there is no reason to believe that the poet was describing himself in this scene. Throughout the two epics, no consistent autobiographical information exists, and no other literature of the period survives that describes the author. Like all major primary epics, The Iliad (Book I and II) is written in omniscient

Sorenson,Omar Bouhaddou,2012-12-06 This monograph series is intended to provide medical information scien tists health care administrators physicians nurses other health care pro viders and computer science professionals with successful examples and experiences of computer applications in health care settings Through these computer applications we attempt to show what is effective and efficient and hope to provide guidance on the acquisition or design of medical information systems so that costly mistakes can be avoided Health care provider organizations such as hospitals and clinics are experiencing large demands for clinical information because of a transition from a fee for service to a capitation based health care economy This transition changes the way health care services are being paid for Previ ously nearly all health care services were paid for by insurance companies after the services were performed Today many procedures need to be pre approved and many charges for clinical services must be justified to the insurance plans Ultimately in a totally capitated system the more patient care services are provided per patient the less profitable the health care provider organization will be Clearly the financial risks have shifted from the insurance carriers to the health care provider organizations For hospitals and clinics to assess these financial risks management needs to know what services are to be provided and how to reduce them without impacting the quality of care The balancing act of reducing costs but maintaining health care quality and patient satisfaction requires accurate information about the clinical services Replies [afterw.] The Oracle , The Encyclopedia Britannica Thomas Spencer Baynes,1881 Circular of Information University of Chicago,1893 The Old World and America Answer Key Most Rev.
