Researching the Belt and Road Initiative Kian Cheng LEE,2025-02-28

This book offers a cross civilizational and interdisciplinary approach to the Belt and Road Initiative BRI research to mitigate the problematiqués of extant literature. Instead of employing conventional lenses of geo political geo economic and geo strategic analyses that are predominant, this book offers fresh perspectives that venture into other civilizational and disciplinary territories while critically seeking integration without falling into romanticizing or essentializing any notions. Due to epistemic inadequacies and other conceptual limitations of existing approaches, this book argues that a heuristic framework drawing from the negotiation between Western and Chinese perspectives as well as integration of anthropological international relations conceptualizations can provide greater potency in unravelling the intricacies of BRI studies. This book is a timely contribution to the ameliorating of the rising tensions between US and China over the recent years. An interdisciplinary toolkit for researchers in BRI related research as well as those in government organizations policy making bodies think tanks trade and industry sectors, the book presents a paradigmatic shift from a predominantly hegemonic Western thinking about the BRI and its role in the region and within academic dialogue.

Anthropology Conrad Phillip Kottak, 1982 Evolution of Culture Robin Dunbar, 2019-07-29 This book explores the ways in which contemporary evolutionary thinking might inform the study of the peculiarly human phenomenon of symbolic culture including language ritual religion religion and art It draws together contributions from biologists linguists anthropologists and archaeologists in order to establish common ground where collaboration and interaction will be especially productive and challenging in the study of those fundamental aspects of our biology that makes us human Multidisciplinary An evolutionary approach to culture Humanistic Psychology Joseph Royce, 2012-12-06 THE FORMATIVE TENDENCY I have often pointed out that in my work with individuals in therapy and in my experience in encounter groups I have been led to the conviction that human nature is essentially constructive When in a therapeutic climate which can be objectively defined a person becomes sharply aware of more of his or her internal experiencing and of the stimuli and demands from the external world thus acquiring a full range of options the person tends to move in the direction of becoming a socially constructive organism But many are critical of this point of view Why should such a positive direction be observed only in humans Isn't this just pure optimism So quite hesitantly because I have to draw on the work and thinking of others rather than on my own experience I should like to try to set this directional tendency in a much broader context I shall draw on my general reading in the field of science but I should like to mention a special indebtedness to the work of Lancelot Whyte in The Universe of Experience Harper and Row 1974 the last book he wrote before his death Though the book has flaws in my judgment this historian has some thought provoking themes to advance I have learned from many others as well The Philosophical and Theological Relevance of Evolutionary Anthropology Martin Breul, Caroline Helms, 2023-03-24 This book explores the philosophical and theological significance of evolutionary anthropology and includes diverse approaches to the relationship between evolution culture and religion Particular emphasis is placed on the work of Michael Tomasello who contributes an opening chapter that tackles the role of religion in his natural history of human thinking and human morality The first section of the book considers the philosophical foundations of evolutionary anthropology and shows that evolutionary anthropology is open to a multitude of philosophical analyses The second part offers theological perspectives on the relationship between evolutionary and theological anthropology and between evolution and religion The volume also reflects more broadly on the complex relationship between religion and science in the contexts of late modern societies It makes a significant contribution to the religion and science debate and offers performative evidence that an interdisciplinary discussion between theologians philosophers and natural scientists is feasible Human Ecology Holger Schutkowski, 2006-02-28 This book explores the relationship between cultural strategies and their biological outcomes combining for the first time an ecosystems approach with cultural anthropological archaeological and evolutionary behavioural concepts Beginning with resource use and food procurement behaviour the text examines major subsistence modes the circumstances and dynamics of large scale subsistence change the effect of social differentiation on resource use and the effects of subsistence behaviour on population development and regulation Im

The Evolution of Human Cleverness Richard Hallam,2022-05-01 The Evolution of Human Cleverness presents a unique introduction to the way human cognitive abilities have evolved The book comprises a series of mini essays on distinct topics in which technical terms are simplified considering how humans made the long journey from our ape like ancestors to become capable of higher level reasoning and problem solving All the topics are cross linked allowing the reader to dip in and out but certain key concepts run through the underlying reasoning Chiefly these are adaptation and selection the distinction between ultimate and proximate causes of behaviour gene culture co evolution and domain general versus domain specific cognitive processes The book should help the reader draw lessons for the human species as a whole especially in view of the environmental threats to its own existence Entries have been carefully crafted to cut through scientific jargon providing bite sized and digestible chunks of knowledge making the topic accessible for students and lay readers alike The author draws on research from diverse fields including Psychology Anthropology Archaeology Biology and Neuroscience to provide an unbiased account of the field making it an ideal text for students of all levels
