Human Rights Brian Orend, 2002-05-23 Winner 2002 Choice Outstanding Academic Title Award What are human rights What justifies us in believing we have them What are rights holders and duty bearers Who should bear the costs and responsibilities for making human rights real Why have some criticized the human rights perspective And how can those supportive of human rights best respond These and other conceptual issues are discussed in full in the first part of this book The second part offers a detailed account of how the human rights idea came to be such a powerful force in the contemporary world it traces the evolution of human rights from their origins to their present position in our daily lives in political struggles and in both national and international law Rights: Concepts and Contexts Horacio Spector, 2017-05-15 Rights Concepts and Contexts contains the central works of recent scholarship on the nature of rights with contributions by some of the most prominent contemporary theorists in moral legal and political philosophy including Joseph Raz Robert Alexy Jeremy Waldron Morton Horwitz Stephen Darwall Margaret Gilbert David Lyons and Aharon Barak With approaches ranging from the political to the historical and from the analytical to the critical this collection touches on the major conceptual and practical questions of this important field what is the nature and grounding of human rights How should conflicts of rights best be analyzed Are rights best understood in terms of choice benefits or some hybrid of the two What are the connections between rights and duties and between rights and justice The collection also offers useful introductions to emerging issues in rights theory such as the purported bipolarity of rights Human Rights Albert A. Zinnos, 2007 Human rights refers to the concept of human beings as having universal rights or status regardless of legal jurisdiction and likewise other localising factors such as ethnicity and nationality For many the concept of human rights is based in religious principles However because a formal concept of human rights has not been universally accepted the term has some degree of variance between its use in different local jurisdictions difference in both meaningful substance as well as in protocols for and styles of application Ultimately the most general meaning of the term is one which can only apply universally and hence the term human rights is often itself an appeal to such transcended principles without basing such on existing legal concepts The term humanism refers to the developing doctrine of such universally applicable values and it is on the basic concept that human beings have innate rights that more specific local legal concepts are often based Within particular societies human rights refers to standards of behaviour as accepted within their respective legal systems regarding 1 the well being of individuals 2 the freedom and autonomy of individuals and 3 the representation of the human interest in government These rights commonly include the right to life the right to an adequate standard of living the prohibition of genocide freedom from torture and other mistreatment freedom of expression freedom of movement the right to self determination the right to education and the right to participation in cultural and political life These norms are based on the legal and political traditions of United Nations member states and are incorporated into international human rights instruments This new book
