EBay Hacks David Karp,2005-06-02 David Karp explains the technical aspects of using eBay giving readers tips on how to make transactions and offers valuable insights on how the eBay culture works Forensic Face Matching Markus Bindemann,2021-01-07 In everyday life we identify faces regularly and seemingly with great ease One might assume this to be a straightforward and highly accurate task However we are poor at identifying the faces of unfamiliar people who we have never met before despite the fact that many important everyday tasks depend on this Forensic face matching requires the comparison of two face photographs of a person who is not known to the observer This seemingly simple task is critical for a wide range of security tasks such as person identification at airports and borders passport issuance and renewal and criminal identification in police investigations Despite its ubiquity face matching is highly prone to error even under conditions that are designed to maximally facilitate this task For this reason face matching has been studied extensively in Psychology with the bulk of the research conducted since 2010 Forensic face Matching provides readers with a wide ranging detailed and critical overview of facial comparison and face matching providing insights into its application efficacy and limitations in occupational settings and of current scientific knowledge of this task Identification Numbers and Check Digit Schemes

Highway Performance Monitoring System Field Manual, 1994 An Investigation Into Border Security Checks John Vine, Independent Chief Inspector of the UK Border Agency, 2012 The Chief Inspector was commissioned by the Home Secretary to investigate and report on the level of checks operated at ports of entry to the UK. This followed the disclosure that some checks may have been suspended without the approval of ministers and the subsequent suspension of the then Head of Border Force. The investigation focused particularly on the Home Office Warnings Index WI used to ascertain whether passengers are of interest to the government agencies. Secure ID checks, passengers' fingerprints at immigration controls against those provided in the visa application process and the risk based measures that formed part of the level 2 pilot where it was no longer routine to open the biometric chip within EEA passports or perform WI checks of EEA children travelling in obvious family or school groups. The number of occasions when checks were suspended depended on the volume of passengers, the level of risk they presented, staff available and the infrastructure of the ports. Overall the Chief Inspector found poor communication, poor managerial oversight and a lack of clarity about roles and responsibilities. There was no single framework setting out all potential border security checks which of these could be suspended in what circumstances and the level of authority required at Agency or Ministerial level to do so. The Agency now has a stronger grip on checks but a new framework of security checks is urgently needed unambiguously specifying checks that must always be carried out and those where there is discretion to suspend.
