Aging, Ageism and Abuse Gloria Gutman, Charmaine Spencer, 2010-02-04 Population aging is occurring worldwide Reports of abuse and neglect of older men and women are also evident on a global basis While much of the work on identification treatment and prevention of abuse of older persons has been within the family setting it cannot be separated from the broader experience of growing old in contemporary society Time and time again issues around legislation policy and practice collide with human rights societal attitudes and stereotypes Raising awareness of the link among aging ageism and abuse is one goal of this book and a necessary first step in the battle to eliminate abuse and neglect of older persons But awareness is not enough action needs to be taken to develop case finding procedures and remedial and preventive policies and programs that are elder friendly both in intent and in the way that they are implemented This book offers a thought provoking examination of selected current policies and programs that have been developed within the health social services and criminal justice systems It highlights the special issues and vulnerabilities of older women older men and persons from the LGTB community It also features a unique approach to reaching young people through an educational program that shapes attitudes and behavior via graphic art Clear straightforward writing style reader does not have to contend with murky theories and obscure references Practical approach readers can relate to the examples that are provided of situations in which abuse and neglect has or can occur

Fostering Social Work Gerontology Competence Catherine J. Tompkins, Anita L. Rosen, 2013-12-19 Inspire the next generation of gerontological social workers The growing number of people over the age of 65 in the United States has increased the demand for social workers who are trained to work with the elderly a demand that is in danger of not being met Fostering Social Work Gerontology Competence presents innovative techniques and strategies to help educators infuse aging content into their graduate and undergraduate curriculums in an effort to produce a new generation of social work practitioners who are up to the task of working with an older population. Recent surveys show that there has been a decline in the number of aging specialties and courses offered by schools of social work. Fostering Social Work Gerontology Competence offers a renewed focus on the promotion of gerontological social work education, presenting papers that grew out of the first National Gerontological Social Work Conference (NGSWC) held in 2003. This unique book is invaluable to anyone who educates future social workers, leads staff training sessions, and/or teaches continuing education courses on aging. Leading gerontologists examine teaching, research, community collaboration, and social work competencies while focusing on special populations and issues including end of life care, elder abuse, grief counseling, cultural diversity, cultural competence, and the effects of spirituality and social support on the well-being of the elderly. Fostering Social Work Gerontology Competence examines curricular and organizational change, developing intergenerational projects involving older persons in the educational process, uniting field practice with theory, strategies to promote student interest, identifying geriatric competencies, intergenerational service learning, developing an aging prepared community, emerging trends in aging and health care, end of life care and death education, environmental issues affecting elder abuse victims, mental health services for older persons in rural communities, kinship care, and much more. Fostering Social Work Gerontology Competence is a vital resource for social work educators and practitioners, gerontology educators and practitioners, and students.
