Food Safety Culture:

Food Safety Culture Frank Yiannas, 2008-12-10 Food safety awareness is at an all time high new and emerging threats to the food supply are being recognized and consumers are eating more and more meals prepared outside of the home Accordingly retail and foodservice establishments as well as food producers at all levels of the food production chain have a growing responsibility to ensure that proper food safety and sanitation practices are followed thereby safeguarding the health of their guests and customers Achieving food safety success in this changing environment requires going beyond traditional training testing and inspectional approaches to managing risks It requires a better understanding of organizational culture and the human dimensions of food safety To improve the food safety performance of a retail or foodservice establishment an organization with thousands of employees or a local community you must change the way people do things You must change their behavior In fact simply put food safety equals behavior When viewed from these lenses one of the most common contributing causes of food borne disease is unsafe behavior such as improper hand washing cross contamination or undercooking food Thus to improve food safety we need to better integrate food science with behavioral science and use a systems based approach to managing food safety risk The importance of organizational culture human behavior and systems thinking is well documented in the occupational safety and health fields However significant contributions to the scientific literature on these topics are noticeably absent in the field of food safety

Food Safety for the 21st Century Carol A. Wallace, William H. Sperber, Sara E. defend the food supply chain from threats Corporate Safety Culture Harbans Lal Kaila, 2024-05-15 This book shall serve as a guiding light for corporate leaders safety professionals and individuals alike who comprehend the utmost significance of safety in the workplace It presents a comprehensive overview of the fundamental aspects of safety culture offering a distinctive perspective that encompasses global standards leadership qualities and the crucial distinction between business and human safety Within its pages we encounter a vast wealth of knowledge supported by real world examples case studies and extensive research The author has skillfully crafted a narrative that renders the often intricate and technical realm of safety culture accessible captivating and undeniably pertinent This book delves into the intricacies of upholding a safety culture delving into the reasons behind employees responses or lack thereof to safety interventions and unraveling the role that emotional connections play in fostering ethical safety cultures From the nuances of behavioral safety to the impact of incidents on a company s response to safety culture this book addresses the multifaceted nature of safety in the corporate sphere A Case Study of Food Safety Culture Within a Retailer Corporate Culture Rodrigo Santibanez-Rivera, 2011 The retail business has been negatively affected due to the increasing customer concerns about food safety and the recent events related to microbiological and chemical contamination of food products such as the melamine in infant formula and the multiple cases of produce pathogen contamination It has been shown that a scientific based food safety system such as Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points HACCP help reduce the likelihood of food safety incidents Nevertheless companies with these kinds of systems have too experienced public food safety issues Food safety professionals have created instruments to measure food safety based on lagging indicators such as pathogen presence or food safety incident reduction Though they have not created metrics based on leading indicators to measure the behavior driven by the culture of employees who handle the food The employees who handle food are influenced by cultural values and behave in a company based on the company s cultural influence hence food safety should also be measured in cultural terms as a leading indicator In order to measure food safety culture of a retail company and understand differences among groups the researcher used case study methodology to select a USA based retailer The researcher described the culture of the retailer as well as the leadership styles Based on these descriptions the food safety culture of the company and the employee constructs were defined and piloted for construct validity and construct reliability Once validated a food safety culture survey instrument was implemented in the operations area of this retailer The results showed that the employees agreed or strongly agreed that food safety was part of the corporate culture One of the factors influencing the food safety culture was service to the customer The results showed that there were differences in food safety culture across the different groups but with negligible or small effect size One of the main contributions of this study was the development of a metric to measure food safety culture in the retail industry It also suggests that besides food safety audit scores and incident reduction food safety needs to be measured in terms of the corporate culture of the retailer In an effort to improve food safety around the world

Regional Food Safety Conference for Asia and the Pacific - Conference report Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations ,2021-04-20 Unsafe food is a burden that costs to the region of Asia and the Pacific 225 000 deaths every year In 2020 the spread of COVID 19 has emphasized the critical need for pre requisite food safety programmes such as those offering good hygiene practices for food handling which are at the core of the response to COVID 19 From 17 to 26 November 2020 the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations FAO has organized the Regional Food Safety Conference for Asia and the Pacific The conference was hosted in collaboration with the Government of Thailand to discuss the current food safety situations and opportunities with a particular focus on the needs and opportunities for the region. It consisted of four sessions with one discussed for each day that held specific focus on different aspects of food safety: national food control systems, science and technology, multi-sectoral collaboration and the international trade, communication and education. The dialogues covered traditional topics such as food safety standards as well as new and emerging subjects such as innovative technologies and the spread of misinformation on food safety. Integrated food safety systems and strong regional collaborations among stakeholders were highlighted as highly important elements of a One Health approach and it was shown how food safety is a shared responsibility and everyone in the food chain has a role to play.

Risk, Reliability and Safety: Innovating Theory and Practice Lesley Walls, Matthew Revie, Tim Bedford, 2016-11-25. The safe and reliable performance of many systems with which we interact daily has been achieved through the analysis and management of risk. From complex infrastructures to consumer durables from engineering systems and technologies used in transportation, health, energy, chemical, oil, gas, aerospace, maritime, defence and other sectors, the management of risk during design, manufacture, operation and decommissioning is vital. Methods and models to support risk-informed decision making are well established but are continually challenged by technology innovations, increasing interdependencies and changes in societal expectations. Risk, Reliability and Safety contains papers describing innovations in theory and practice contributed to the scientific programme of the European Safety and Reliability conference ESREL 2016 held at the University of Strathclyde in Glasgow, Scotland, 25-29 September 2016. Authors include scientists, academics, practitioners, regulators and other key individuals with expertise and experience relevant to specific areas. Papers include domain-specific applications as well as general modelling methods. Papers cover evaluation of contemporary solutions, exploration of future challenges and exposition of concepts, methods and processes. Topics include human factors, occupational health and safety, dynamic and systems reliability, modelling, maintenance, optimisation, uncertainty analysis, resilience, assessment, risk and crisis management.
