Men on Screen Crime Cinema Then and Now Gene D Phillips revisits some of the most popular and iconic representations of the genre While this volume offers new perspectives on some established classics usual suspects like Little Caesar Bonnie and Clyde and The Godfather Part II Phillips also calls attention to some of the unheralded but no less worthy films and filmmakers that represent the genre Expanding the viewer's notion of what constitutes a gangster film Phillips offers such unusual choices as You Only Live Once Key Largo The Lady from Shanghai and even the 1949 version of The Great Gatsby Also included in this examination are more recent ventures such as modern classics The Grifters and Martin Scorsese's The Departed In his analyses Phillips draws on a number of sources including personal interviews with directors and other artists and technicians associated with the films he discusses Of interest to film historians and scholars Gangsters and G Men on Screen will also appeal to anyone who wants to better understand the films that represent an important contribution to crime cinema

Historical Dictionary of Film Noir Andrew Spicer, 2010-03-19 Film noir literally black cinema is the label customarily given to a group of black and white American films mostly crime thrillers made between 1940 and 1959 Today there is considerable dispute about what are the shared features that classify a noir film and therefore which films should be included in this category These problems are partly caused because film noir is a retrospective label that was not used in the 1940s or 1950s by the film industry as a production category and therefore its existence and features cannot be established through reference to trade documents The Historical Dictionary of Film Noir is a comprehensive guide that ranges from 1940 to present day neo noir It consists of a chronology an introductory essay a bibliography a filmography and over 400 cross referenced dictionary entries on every aspect of film noir and neo noir including key films personnel actors cinematographers composers directors producers set designers and writers themes issues influences visual style cycles of films e g amnesiac noirs the representation of the city and gender other forms comics graphic novels television and videogames and noir's presence in world cinema It is an essential reference work for all those interested in this important cultural phenomenon
