Philip A Mundo explains how it is rooted in the domestic policy process and carries with it enormous implications for domestic affairs. He reviews the growing importance of trade policy since World War II particularly over the past twenty years and shows how recent policies like NAFTA are shaped by the domestic agenda. Mundo explains trade policy as the product of a three stage process comprising agenda setting, program adoption and implementation. He reviews this process in terms of the ideas that inform trade policy, the interests that seek to influence it and the institutions that shape it. He also addresses the importance of specific measures such as administrative relief and trade sanctions. This book distills the essence of the trade policy process into a concise innovative framework accessible to students and general readers. With the growing importance of trade policy, it makes explicit many of the subtleties surrounding policymaking while fully explicating the legal and international context in which trade operates.

Multinational Companies, Knowledge and Technology Transfer

Alper Sönmez, 2013-12-18 This book provides evidence on how FDI leads to knowledge and technology transfers towards domestic firms by paying attention to the role of multinational companies. The author presents a comprehensive empirical research conducted at firm level in the Turkish automotive industry. Using a representative sample of face to face in depth interviews with top executives and a survey of top level managers of domestic suppliers, the research analyzes the existence, channels, intensity and determinants, and the kind of transfers that occur at both inter and intra firm level in the industry. The author contends that policies aimed at attracting FDI flows should be re-examined under the findings and insights of this study since it is a necessary although not sufficient condition to have an efficient absorptive capacity level and/or skilled human capital stock in order to benefit from these flows. This study has policy implications for the automotive industry as well as practical recommendations for the public institutions and top executives in emerging country companies and multinationals in order to conceive and implement science and technology policies in supporting the knowledge transfers.
