States of Rage Renee R. Curry, 1996-01-01 States of Rage permeate our culture and our daily lives From the anti Catholic protests of ACT UP to the political posturing of Al Sharpton from the LA Riots to anti abortion gunmen murdering clinic personnel the unleashing of rage marginalized or institutional has translated into dead bodies on our campuses and city streets in our public buildings and in our homes Rage seems to have gained a currency in the past decade which it previously did not possess Suddenly we appear willing to employ it more often to describe our own or others mental states or actions Rage succinctly describes an ongoing emotional state for many residents and citizens of the United States and elsewhere States of Rage gathers for the first time a critical mass of writing about rage its function expression and utilities It examines rage as a cultural phenomenon delineating its use and explaining why this emotional state increasingly intrudes into our social artistic and academic existences What is the relationship between rage and powerlessness How does rage relate to personal or social injustice Can we ritualize rage or is it always spontaneous Finally what provokes rage and what is provocative about it Essays shed light on the psychological and social origins of rage its relationship to the self its connection to culture and its possible triggers The volume includes chapters on violence in the workplace the Montreal massacre female murderers the rage of African American filmmakers rage as a reaction to persecution the rage of AIDS activists class rage and rage in the academy Managing Human Resources in Africa Chima Mordi, Hakeem Adeniyi Ajonbadi, Olatunji David Adekoya, Toyin Ajibade Adisa, 2023-07-24 Over the decades academic literature has too often neglected the complexities and diversity of the African continent and the challenges faced by both multinational companies working across Africa and domestic African companies particularly in the field of human resources This edited collection has been compiled with the aim of developing our understanding and practice of HRM in an African context within an increasingly global work milieu Chapters focus on different African countries and are underpinned by a critical approach to HRM which goes beyond focussing on the business cases but considers the sensitivity of the national context The authors will draw on various types of research conceptual theoretical and empirical and incorporate contextual issues such as technology politics culture and economics to supplement the readers insights into the current state of human resource management in African countries By highlighting theoretical underpinnings and emphasising the practical relevance of HR issues this proposed book will offer an insightful guide for students and scholars interested in HR and management in developing economies MALAYSIA Collection of Essays Firend Al. Rasch, Impressed with the economic performance of Malaysia triggered an interest in examining how Malaysia then under PM Mahathir managed to pull out of the financial crisis of 1997 that gripped much of South East Asia Years later Malaysia managed to pull itself out of the financial crisis and to be a rising Asian tiger This early interest has turned into love and affection to a country with unique history resources and marvelous people The deeper my research of Malaysia the more my frustration grew with the lack of ability of a nation to move into a unique socio economic position That is to equalize with Singapore or compete at the global level with Korea I chose 2020 to publish this body of work because I was waiting to confirm my hypothesis that Malaysia will not manage to achieve Wawasan 2020 vision 2020 which is to be amongst 1st world nations Failing to achieve vision 2020 is no coincidence Malaysia is stuck in the middle between cheap production countries such as Vietnam and Korea and services based economies such as Singapore The first essay that follows the introduction is called The Phenomenon of Economic Inertia The premise for this research paper is that Malaysia is suffering from a phenomenon of inertia economically however that it is incapable of pulling itself out of its current position like many developing nations for number of reasons With corruption being deeply rooted in the varying layers of society and a leadership that failed to control corruption as in the case of Singapore and move the country into globally competitive position This is what is meant by a Phenomenon of Inertia that is a conscious self inflicted condition The human factor in the hypothesis of Phenomenon of Inertia does comprise of society at large people leadership and institutions Managerial practices in Malaysia are still hierarchical and power based Such hierarchy and power bases are an evident participant in the inner play of socio economics of the Malaysian nation The Malaysian current state of affairs as of 2020 is self inflicted condition With the Malaysia education system being deeply flawed This naturally led into the state of Malaysian lack of industrial competitiveness which is not breaking through its global competitors With so much to offer Malaysia still has a great chance to make the leap forward to achieve its Wawasan to be realized in a later date as long as it gets there This will entirely depend on the will of the Malaysian people collectively
