Question 3: Apply It!

Paper 2 Section 4: Reading

Analysing the effects of language is important. You need to read between the lines and ask yourself what the writer wanted you to imagine when they chose a particular word, phrase or language feature.

How does the writer use language to describe the Dalmatian puppies?

CHECK YOUR UNDERSTANDING

This student response would be awarded Level 3:

1. Identify the explanation of the effects of language that is precise and contextualised.

As quickly as she can scoop them up and place them in their large wicker basket, they spill out again, darting between her legs, nipping at her stockings and endlessly disappearing and reappearing in a polka-dot whirl.

The writer says the puppies make a 'polka-dot whirl', suggesting they are spinning about so quickly that they become an uncontrollable flurry of spots all blurred into one.

Question 5: Apply It!

Paper 1 Section 5: Writing

Use the senses when writing a description; you can link them to person, place, time, feeling or scene.

Describe a fairground, as suggested by this picture:

Appeal to your reader's senses by focusing on each individual sense and describing it in detail, e.g. for sight:

The Ferris wheel rides, luminous against the night sky, cast multi-coloured reflections on the ground as they hurtled past.

TIP

Using the senses can be important when writing a story as well as a description.

CHECK YOUR UNDERSTANDING

1. Think of a detailed, descriptive sentence about the fairground for each of the following: sound, smell, taste and touch.

53

Question 5: Apply It!

Paper 2 Section 5: Writing

The introduction is important when writing to argue or persuade. Not only does the opening paragraph have to grab your reader's interest, it has to make your point of view clear. The tone you are adopting should also be obvious.

CHECK YOUR UNDERSTANDING

1. Look at the following student sample and explain what makes it a successful introduction. Think about:

- the opening sentence
- the point of view expressed
- relevance to the given statement
- the tone

Our society is obsessed with celebrities. In the past, children used to dream about growing up to be a teacher or a doctor, but these days they just want to be famous. Not famous for doing anything special, just famous for being famous. It's completely ridiculous. I believe that most celebrities do neglect their position in society and offer nothing in return.

TIP

Refer to the given statement in your introduction to show that what you are saying is relevant.

58

Question 2: Apply It!

Paper 2 Section 4: Reading

Source A is about the markets of Morocco. For Question 2 you have to summarise information/ideas in Source A and Source B (see Card 32).

Marrakech is famous for its lively tourist markets [...]. From spices to tea sets and from clothing to ornate mugs, the markets of Marrakech offer a wide assortment of goods for sale. Even if you don't plan to buy anything, strolling around Marrakech's vibrant markets is an experience not to be missed. With the [...] goods lining the jumble of narrow streets that snake through the old town, it can be tricky at times to discern where one market ends and another one begins.

Start your summary by looking at key information and ideas about the markets.

CHECK YOUR UNDERSTANDING

1. How many markets are being described?
2. Where is the location of the markets?
3. What is sold in the markets?
4. Who visits the markets?
5. Why do visitors go to the markets?
