Kainz, 2013-03-08 Organometallic Chemistry Volume 8 Edward W. Abel, Stone, 1972 Annotation Organometallic chemistry is an interdisciplinary science which continues to grow at a rapid pace Although there is continued interest in synthetic and structural studies the last decade has seen a growing interest in the potential of organometallic chemistry to provide answers to problems in catalysis synthetic organic chemistry and also in the development of new materials This Specialist Periodical Report aims to reflect these current interests reviewing progress in theoretical organometallic chemistry main group chemistry the lanthanides and all aspects of transition metal chemistry Specialist Periodical Reports provide systematic and detailed review coverage of progress in the major areas of chemical research Written by experts in their specialist fields the series creates a unique service for the active research chemist supplying regular critical in depth accounts of progress in particular areas of chemistry For over 80 years the Royal Society of Chemistry and its predecessor the Chemical Society have been publishing reports charting developments in chemistry which originally took the form of Annual Reports. However, by 1967 the whole spectrum of chemistry could no longer be contained within one volume and the series Specialist Periodical Reports was born. The Annual Reports themselves still existed but were divided into two and subsequently three volumes covering Inorganic, Organic and Physical Chemistry. For more general coverage of the highlights in chemistry they remain a must. Since that time the SPR series has altered according to the fluctuating degree of activity in various fields of chemistry. Some titles have remained unchanged while others have altered their emphasis along with their titles; some have been combined under a new name whereas others have had to be discontinued. The current list of Specialist Periodical Reports can be seen on the inside flap of this volume.

Paper-Based Optical Chemosensors Liang Feng, 2024-11-13. Paper-based Optical Chemosensors comprehensively discusses the origin, development and current state of the art in paper-based sensors. With a focus on the principles, classifications, methodology, design and application of paper-based sensors, this book represents a developing research field with recent innovative applications, resulting in a comprehensive presentation of the different physico-chemical techniques using paper sensors. It discloses underlying rules and factors in paper-based sensors and discusses intricate sensing systems and working environments by ways of chemistry and physics for a variety of application scenarios such as environmental protection, food safety, public safety and clinical diagnosis. This is a valuable resource for researchers who major in analytical chemistry or for those who are interested in the development of methods or devices for rapid analysis monitoring based on paper membrane-based sensors who wish to broaden their knowledge in the allied field. Presents a comprehensive discussion on the current state, challenges and future perspectives of paper-based optical chemosensors. Offers discussions on the classification, methodology, design and application of paper-based sensors. Provides opportunities for readers to design paper-based sensors with specific purpose and deeper awareness.
