Encyclopedia of Geographic Information Science Karen Kemp,2008 Geographic information science GIScience is an emerging field that combines aspects of many different disciplines Spatial literacy is rapidly becoming recognized as a new essential pier of basic education alongside grammatical logical and mathematical literacy By incorporating location as an essential but often overlooked characteristic of what we seek to understand in the natural and built environment geographic information science GIScience and systems GISystems provide the conceptual foundation and tools to explore this new frontier The Encyclopedia of Geographic Information Science covers the essence of this exciting new and expanding field in an easily understood but richly detailed style In addition to contributions from some of the best recognized scholars in GIScience this volume contains contributions from experts in GIS supporting disciplines who explore how their disciplinary perspectives are expanded within the context of GIScience what changes when consideration of location is added what complexities in analytical procedures are added when we consider objects in 2 3 or even 4 dimensions what can we gain by visualizing our analytical results on a map or 3D display Key Features Brings together GIScience literature that is spread widely across the academic spectrum Offers details about the key foundations of GIScience no matter what their disciplinary origins Elucidates vocabulary that is an amalgam of all of these fields Key Themes Conceptual Foundations Cartography and Visualization Design Aspects Data Manipulation Data Modeling Geocomputation Geospatial Data Societal Issues Spatial Analysis Organizational and Institutional Aspects The Encyclopedia of Geographic Information Science is an important resource for academic and corporate libraries Australian national bibliography ,1961 Computer Program Abstracts ,1980 ASCE Combined Index American Society of Civil Engineers,1989 Indexes materials appearing in the Society's Journals Transactions Manuals and reports Special publications and Civil engineering InfoWorld ,1992-06-22 InfoWorld is targeted to Senior IT professionals Content is segmented into Channels and Topic Centers InfoWorld also celebrates people companies and projects Use of Services for Family Planning and Infertility, United States, 1982 Gerry E. Hendershot,Marjorie C. Horn,William D. Mosher,1988 The 1982 statistics on the use of family planning and infertility services presented in this report are preliminary results from Cycle III of the National Survey of Family Growth NSFG conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics Data were collected through personal interviews with a multistage area probability sample of 7969 women aged 15-44. A detailed series of questions was asked to obtain relatively complete estimates of the extent and type of family planning services received. Statistics on family planning services are limited to women who were able to conceive 3 years before the interview date. Overall, 79% of currently married nonsterile women reported using some type of family planning service during the previous 3 years. There were no statistically significant differences between white (79%), black (75%), or Hispanic (77%) women or between the 2 income groups. The 1982 survey questions were more comprehensive than those of earlier cycles of the survey. The annual rate of visits for family planning services in 1982 was 1077 visits/1000 women. Teenagers had the highest annual visit rate (1581/1000) of any age group for all sources of family planning services combined. Visit rates declined sharply with age from 1447 at ages 15-24 to 479 at ages 35-44. Similar declines with age also were found in the visit rates for white and black women separately. Nevertheless, the annual visit rate for black women (1334/1000) was significantly higher than that for white women (1033). The highest overall visit rate was for black women 15-19 years of age (1867/1000). Nearly 2/3 of all family planning visits were to private medical sources. Teenagers of all races had higher family planning service visit rates to clinics than to private medical sources, as did black women age 15-24. White women age 20 and older had higher visit rates to private medical services than to clinics. Never married women had higher visit rates to clinics than currently or formerly married women. Data were also collected in 1982 on use of medical services for infertility by women who had difficulty in conceiving or carrying a pregnancy to term. About 1 million ever married women had 1 or more infertility visits in the 12 months before the interview. During the 3 years before interview, about 1.9 million women had infertility visits. For all ever married women as well as for white and black women separately, infertility services were more likely to be secured from private medical sources than from clinics. The survey design, reliability of the estimates, and the terms used are explained in the technical notes.
