techniques and gear descriptions with an understanding of how technical choices can create meaning and serve a director's creative vision. Drawing on the authors' years of experience as documentary filmmakers and on interviews with a range of working professionals in the field, the book offers concrete and thoughtful guidance through all stages of production, from finding and researching ideas to production, editing, and distribution. Documentary Voice: Vision will help students and aspiring filmmakers think through research and story structure, ethics, legal issues, and aesthetics, as well as techniques from camera handling to lighting, sound recording, and editing. The book explores a full range of production styles, from expository to impressionistic to observational, and provides an overview of contemporary distribution options. Documentary Voice: Vision is a companion text to Mick Hurbis-Cherrier's Voice: Vision: A Creative Approach to Narrative Film and DV Production and employs a similar style and approach to that classic text. This text is written from the perspective of documentary filmmakers and includes myriad examples from the world of non-fiction filmmaking. A robust companion website featuring additional resources and interactive figures accompanies the book.

A Field Guide for Immersion Writing Robin Hemley, 2012
Discusses the various types of immersion writing, including travel memoir and journalism, and explains some of the issues that writers encounter in reporting about the factual world and in describing other people and their own inner experiences.

The Garden in the Machine Scott MacDonald, 2001-12-18
This book is MacDonald's magnum opus; it represents a deep immersion in and advocacy for independent experimental cinema. Patricia R. Zimmerman, author of States of Emergency: Documentaries, Wars, Democracies. This is a brilliant study, learned, authoritative, and often eloquent. One reads this book with astonishment at the wealth of thoughtful and playful and provocative work that has occurred in this medium and astonishment too that most scholars of environmental literature and nature in the visual arts have had minimal contact with independent film and video. MacDonald provides an immensely valuable, readable overview of this field, profoundly relevant to my own work and that of many other contemporary ecocritics. Scott Slovic, editor of ISLE: Interdisciplinary Studies in Literature and Environment. The Garden in the Machine is clearly MacDonald's major work. It is very original and wide-reaching, especially in its analysis of the relationship of American avant-garde films to the poetry and painting of the native landscape. MacDonald's authority is evident everywhere; he probably knows more about most of the films he discusses than anyone alive. P. Adams Sitney, author of Modernist Montage: The Obscurity of Vision in Cinema and Literature. The Garden in the Machine reflects Scott MacDonald's career-long lived engagement with avant-garde film and filmmakers. With deep respect for the artists and a rich, wide-ranging curiosity about the cultural histories that inform these films, MacDonald makes a powerful argument for why they should be screened, taught, and discussed within the wider context of American Studies. Throughout, MacDonald analyzes themes of race, history, personal and public memory, and the central role of avant-garde films in shaping our possible futures. Angela Miller, author of Empire of the Eye: Landscape Representation and American Cultural Politics, 1825-1875.

Petrocinema Marina Dahlquist, Patrick Vonderau, 2021-01-28

essays concerning the close relationship between the oil industry and modern media especially film Since the early 1920s oil extracting companies such as Standard Oil Royal Dutch Shell ConocoPhillips or Statoil have been producing and circulating moving images for various purposes including research and training safety process observation or promotion Such industrial and sponsored films include documentaries educationals and commercials that formed part of a larger cultural project to transform the image of oil exploitation creating media interfaces that would allow corporations to coordinate their goals with broader cultural and societal concerns Falling outside of the domain of conventional cinema such films firmly belong to an emerging canon of sponsored and educational film and media that has developed over the past decade Contributing to this burgeoning field of sponsored and educational film scholarship chapters in this book bear on the intersecting cultural histories of oil extraction and media history by looking closely at moving image imaginaries of the oil industry from the earliest origins or spills in the 20th century to today's post industrial petromelancholia
