Framing the Nation Alison J. Murray Levine,2011-11-03 Framing the Nation Documentary Film in Interwar France argues that between World Wars I and II documentary film made a substantial contribution to the rewriting of the French national narrative to include rural France and the colonies The book mines a significant body of virtually unknown films and manuscripts for their insight into revisions of French national identity in the aftermath of the Great War From 1918 onwards government institutions sought to advance social programs they believed were crucial to national regeneration They turned to documentary film a new form of mass communication to do so Many scholars of French film state that the French made no significant contribution to documentary film prior to the Vichy period Using until now overlooked films Framing the Nation refutes this misconception and shows that the French were early and active believers in the uses of documentary film for social change and these films reached audiences far beyond the confines of commercial cinema circuits in urban areas

Documenting Taiwan on Film Sylvia Li-chun Lin,Tze-lan Deborah Sang,2012-03-12 To date there is but a handful of articles on documentary films from Taiwan This volume seeks to remedy the paucity in this area of research and conduct a systematic analysis of the genre Each contributor to the volume investigates the various aspects of documentary by focusing on one or two specific films that document social political and cultural changes in recent Taiwanese history Since the lifting of martial law documentary has witnessed a revival in Taiwan with increasing numbers of young independent filmmakers covering a wide range of subject matter in contrast to fiction films which have been in steady decline in their appeal to local Taiwanese viewers. These documentaries capture images of Taiwan in its transformation from an agricultural island to a capitalist economy in the global market as well as from an authoritarian system to democracy. What makes these documentaries a unique subject of academic inquiry lies not only in their exploration of local Taiwanese issues but more importantly in the contribution they make to the field of non-fiction film studies. As the former third world countries and Soviet bloc begin to re-examine their past and document social changes on film, the case of Taiwan will undoubtedly become a valuable source of comparison and inspiration. These Taiwanese documentaries introduce a new Asian perspective to the wealth of Anglo-American scholarship with the potential to serve as exemplar for countries undergoing similar political and social transformations. Documenting Taiwan on Film is essential reading for all those interested in Taiwan Studies, film studies, and Asian cinema.

How to Read a Film James Monaco, 1981. Now thoroughly revised and updated, the book discusses recent breakthroughs in media technology, including such exciting advances as video discs and cassettes, two-way television, satellites, cable, and much more.
