readers across centuries and continents to shed new light on one of history's greatest paradoxes. Why did Europe's dramatic rise begin in the wake of the Black Death? Belich shows how plague doubled the per capita endowment of everything even as it decimated the population. Many more people had disposable incomes. Demand grew for silks, sugar, spices, furs, gold, and slaves. Europe expanded to satisfy that demand, and plague provided the means. Labour scarcity drove more use of waterpower, wind power, and gunpowder. Technologies like water-powered blast furnaces, heavily gunned galleons, and musketry were fast tracked by plague. A new crew culture of disposable males emerged to man the guns and galleons. Setting the rise of Western Europe in global context, Belich demonstrates how the mighty empires of the Middle East and Russia also flourished after the plague, and how European expansion was deeply entangled with the Chinese and other peoples throughout the world.

Short History of Dubrovnik Prvoslav Ralić, 1992      Age, Marriage, and Politics in Fifteenth-century Ragusa David Rheubottom, 2000 This book combines the interdisciplinary insights of history, anthropology, and computing to examine the interrelationships between politics, kinship, and marriage in a late medieval city-state. At the heart of the study is a reconsideration of office and the ways in which ties of kinship and marriage were mobilized to build electoral success. In fifteenth-century Ragusa, present-day Dubrovnik, membership of the Great Council, which nominated and elected office holders, was restricted to the legitimate male offspring of patrician brides and grooms. The patrician class was highly endogamous, and the relationship between endogamy and electoral support is an important theme running through this book. A related theme concerns the age differences between spouses, which are shown to have important structural implications for the organization of the casata kinship relations and marriage ties. These implications are investigated using a variety of innovative methods, including cohort analysis and computer simulation.

Montenegro and Serbia Kenneth Morrison, Vesko Garcevic, 2025-01-23 This is the first comprehensive analysis of the oft-divergent paths taken by Montenegro and Serbia in the tumultuous period between the late 1980s and the present day. Utilising both primary and secondary sources, many previously unpublished in English, this book provides a detailed examination of the complex relations between Montenegro and Serbia in the Yugoslav context and their bilateral relationship since they parted ways in 2006. Montenegro and Serbia: A Velvet Divorce offers a broader overview of the internal political developments in both countries, their interactions, and the forging of their own distinct and ultimately divergent domestic and foreign policies. Kenneth Morrison and Vesko Garcevic also explore the relationships that Montenegro and Serbia have had and continue to have with Russia, China, the EU, and NATO, making this a highly relevant study for those interested in global power politics as well as contemporary political dynamics in the Western Balkans.
