Microeconomic Theory Walter Nicholson,1978      Ecosystem-Based Management, Ecosystem Services and Aquatic Biodiversity Timothy G. O'Higgins,2020 Aquatic ecosystems are rich in biodiversity and home to a diverse array of species and habitats providing a wide variety of benefits to human beings Many of these valuable ecosystems are at risk of being irreversibly damaged by human activities and pressures including pollution contamination invasive species overfishing and climate change Such pressures threaten the sustainability of these ecosystems their provision of ecosystem services and ultimately human well being Ecosystem based management EBM is now widely considered the most promising paradigm for balancing sustainable development and biodiversity protection and various international strategies and conventions have championed the EBM cause and the inclusion of ecosystem services in decision making This open access book introduces the essential concepts and principles required to implement ecosystem based management detailing tools and techniques and describing the application of these concepts and tools to a broad range of aquatic ecosystems from the shores of Lough Erne in Northern Ireland to the estuaries of the US Pacific Northwest and the tropical Mekong Delta      Defining an Economics Research Program to Describe and Evaluate Ecosystem Services J. D. Kline,2006 Balancing society's multiple and sometimes competing objectives regarding forests calls for information describing the direct and indirect benefits resulting from forest policy and management whether to address wildfire loss of open space unmanaged recreation ecosystem restoration or other objectives The USDA Forest Service recently has proposed the concept of ecosystem services as a framework for 1 describing the many benefits provided by public and private forests 2 evaluating the effects of policy and management decisions involving public and private forest lands and 3 advocating the use of economic and market based incentives to protect private forest lands from development The concept extends traditional economic theory regarding multiple forest benefits and the use of economic incentives to enhance their provision by emphasizing ecosystems as an organizing structure for benefits Although the emphasis on ecosystems is new challenges in evaluating ecosystem services are similar to those long faced by economists tasked with evaluating forest benefits 1 defining a typology of ecosystem services 2 describing and measuring ecosystem services units or outputs and 3 describing and measuring ecosystem services per unit of values or social weights Progress within the Forest Service in applying the ecosystem services concept to forest policy and management will depend on knowing what information will suffice working across disciplines deciding on appropriate analytical frameworks defining the appropriate role of economic and market based incentives and adequately funding economics research
