Swedish Military Intelligence Gunilla Eriksson, 2016-08-16 Gunilla Eriksson revises our perception of intelligence as carefully collected data and objective truth arguing that there are hidden aspects to intelligence analysis that need to be uncovered and critically examined This twofold study investigates the character of intelligence knowledge and the social context in which it is produced using the Swedish Military and Security Directorate MUST as a case study Eriksson argues that there is an implicit framework that continuously influences knowledge production what kind of data is considered relevant how this data is interpreted and the specific social and linguistic context of the organisation surrounded by unarticulated norms and specific procedures She asks whether these conventions hamper or obstruct intelligence assessments an essential analysis given that history has shown us the grave consequences basing policy on intelligence's wrong conclusions

Pedagogies of Educational Transitions Nadine Ballam, Bob Perry, Anders Garpelin, 2016-10-04 This book presents the latest research on educational transitions from a variety of research traditions and practical contexts set in Australia New Zealand and several European countries It examines critically questions and reshapes ideas and notions about children's transitions to school The book is divided into five parts the first two of which emphasise diversity and inclusion with Part II focusing solely on the transition to school for children from Indigenous cultures Part III explores the notion of continuity which has been widely debated in terms of its role in the transition to school Part IV explores the transition to school through the notion of crossing borders The final section of this book Part V includes ideas about future directions for work in the area of educational transitions and presents the notion of transitions as a tool for change to policy research and practice The book concludes with a critical synthesis of the research outlined throughout including recommendations regarding future research related to educational transitions

Poverty Development Al Sadi, 2012-09-25 The book deals with poverty as one of the most serious and urgent issue in our modern time Partly because Poverty is the essence of all other social illnesses and partly because of its direct influence over human security system in a world accelerating towards global and international common human rights values The book addresses the current poverty reduction plans that proved to be inefficient and controversial these plans made poor nations in their attempt to escape poverty net they find themselves trapped in a well woven poverty net and became more dependent than ever in their everyday food and human needs All the known institutions like the WB IMF Development Banks as well as aid organs worked under the Washington Consensus ready made recipe in granting their preconditioned aid let alone some subvention measurement protected by local legislative system in rich and donating nations Poverty becomes a threat to the economic development in rich nations as well and for the time being a security one The book will explain and reason the way poverty is developing in the world and suggest some solutions and compromises needed to solve this issue

The Autonomy Paradox: Teachers' Perceptions of Self-Governance Across Europe Wieland Wermke, Maija Salokangas, 2021-03-24 What do we mean when we speak about teacher autonomy How free are teachers to go about their work To answer these complex questions the authors asked thousands of teachers in four national contexts in Finland Ireland Germany and Sweden what they think autonomy looks like The resulting book examines teacher autonomy theoretically and empirically comparing teachers perceptions of their professional autonomy Utilizing a mixed method approach the authors combine data from a large scale questionnaire study teacher interviews lesson and meeting observations and workshops that brought together teachers from the four participating countries All this engagement with teachers revealed that simply increasing their professional autonomy might not lead to desired outcomes This is because from a teachers point of view increased decision making capacity brings further complexity and risk to their work and it may instead lead to anxiety self restriction and the eventual rejection of autonomy These surprising conclusions challenge the increasingly orthodox view that increased autonomy is a desirable end in itself This is what the authors call the autonomy paradox

Modern Solid Waste Management in Practice Anna Bernstad Saraiva Schott, Henrik Aspegren, Mimmi Bissmont, Jes la Cour Jansen, 2013-12-17 This book focuses on sustainable solid waste management in an urban context and gives an example of how a modern city can work with waste management for increased sustainability in close cooperation with the academy The book describes challenges which the city is facing and presents a case on how these can be tackled based on several research and development projects performed in the City of Malm over the last decade In these projects the city has worked as a test bed for new solutions developed with and evaluated by the university The projects and evaluations of the same have been developed with a multi dimensional approach including technical aspects resource efficiency economic parameters information strategies towards households and user friendliness Methods used for evaluation are presented in a comprehensive way together with a discussion on how results from performed evaluations have affected the solid waste management policy making in the city The book describes a bridging over a commonly noticed gap between research on the one hand and policy making and technical management on the other Several examples are given on how academy and real life and full scale developments in the city can have a fruit full collaboration where feed back from evaluation of made changes are used for continuous improvements at the same time as the actual needs from the city forces the academy to develop new methods for evaluations and develop new solutions to previously un known or un addressed problems

Strengthening International Relations Through Transformative Theory and Practice Pietrzak, Piotr, 2025-06-26 As the world becomes more connected strengthening international relations is essential for fostering global stability for economic and cultural growth By integrating theory and practice applications nations can move beyond traditional diplomatic approaches to embrace new strategies By applying transformative theories it allows for fresh perspectives to address global challenges and utilize practical applications Further research may ensure these concepts translate into meaningful action Strengthening International Relations Through Transformative Theory and Practice explores the debate between international relations theory and global response It examines how integrations with theory and practices devise the most applicable solutions to ongoing confrontations and tensions between various countries and other non state actors This book covers topics such as international relations globalization and global business and is a useful resource for government officials business owners academicians researchers and policymakers on assessment and evaluation practices with young children in contemporary times within early childhood education systems. It critiques and evaluates current evaluation and assessment goals and tools in early childhood settings. The book also compares the different approaches to educational evaluations from different countries in early childhood education and care. It provides insights into different approaches, techniques as well as perspectives of micro and macro levels of analysis. This book aims to create an international understanding about the thematic conceptions of assessment for early childhood education and care.

Intergenerational Memory and Language of the Sarajevo Sephardim Jonna Rock, 2019-04-10. This book analyses issues of language and Jewish identity among the Sephardim in Sarajevo. The author examines how Sephardim belonging to three different generations in Sarajevo deal with the challenge of cultivating hybrid and hyphenated identities under destabilizing conditions, exploring how a group of interviewees define and describe the language they speak since Yugoslavia's collapse. Their self-identification through language is then placed within the context of other cases of linguistic and ethnic identity formation in European minority groups. This book will be of interest to students and scholars working in several related fields and disciplines including Slavic studies, Historical Anthropology, Jewish History and Holocaust studies, Sociolinguistics and Memory studies.

Visual Public Relations Simon Collister, Sarah Roberts-Bowman, 2018-03-28. This book brings together a broad and diverse range of new and radical approaches to public relations, focussing on the increasingly vital role that visual sensory and physical elements/factors play in shaping communication. Engaging with recent developments in critical and cultural theories, it outlines how non-textual and non-representational forces play a central role in the efficacy and reception of public relations. Challenging the dominant accounts of public relations which center on the purely representational uses of text and imagery, the book critiques the suitability of accepted definitions of the field and highlights future directions for conceptualizing strategic communication within a multi-sensory environment. Drawing on the work of global researchers in public relations, visual culture and communication design and cultural theory, it brings a welcome interdisciplinary approach which pushes the boundaries of public relations scholarship in a global cultural context. This exciting analysis will be of great interest to public relations scholars, advanced students of strategic communication as well as communication researchers from cultural media and critical studies exploring PR as a socio-cultural phenomenon.

Geopolitical Rivalries and Strategic Competition Across Eurasia Pietrzak, Piotr, 2025-07-29. Geopolitical rivalries and strategic competition across Eurasia have intensified in recent years, reshaping the continent's political, economic and security dynamics. As major powers pursue competing interests, Eurasia has become a critical area for influence, infrastructure development and military impressions. From various global initiatives to regional policies, complex alliances, rivalries and strategic calculations emerge. These developments redefine state relationships while impacting global power balances and regional stability. Geopolitical Rivalries and Strategic Competition Across Eurasia explores the influence of geopolitics on government strategy and international relations. It examines various political rivalries and competitions across the Eurasia region presenting areas of influence that define current regional relationships This book covers topics such as foreign policy global business and democracy and is a useful resource for government officials business owners policymakers academicians researchers and scientists

Regional Environmental Governance and Avenues for the Ecosystem

Approach to management in the Baltic Sea Area Sara Söderström, 2017-01-17 This thesis explores the avenues for the ecosystem approach to management in the Baltic Sea Region This region is one of the most contaminated water bodies in the world although the first Regional Seas Convention was created here and the region has a long history of cooperation and environmental protection The current environmental governance arrangements are examined with specific focus on governance structures cross sectoral integration and ecological boundaries The ecosystem approach to management as both a tool and vision of holistic management of natural resources is traced through the evolution of environmental governance as well as its manifestation in contemporary environmental policies in the region It is found that the major EU directives as well as HELCOM policies promote the ecosystem approach and that its presence has increased in recent years it is now the major guiding principle in European marine governance However the governance structures impede implementation in different ways The environmental problem areas in the region all require different governance arrangements thus obstructing a holistic approach The environmental problems per se also affect each other necessitating far reaching sectoral integration and cross border cooperation which at present is the major obstacle regarding implementation The contemporary trends combining solid regionalisation through HELCOM with increased Europeanisation and macro regionalisation by different EU initiatives offer some promise but the cross sectoral impediments must be resolved if the ecosystem approach is to become a practical approach and not just a policy principle

Children in Custody Disputes Anna Kaldal, Agnes Hellner, Titti Mattsson, 2023-12-07 This open access book explores how legal proceedings in and out of court can be matched to the complex problems underlying disputes concerning child custody residence and contact between parents It focusses in particular on Nordic experiences of in and out of court mechanisms as means of resolving custody disputes The contributors are internationally renowned and experienced researchers from the legal psychological and sociological fields who provide empirical as well as legal perspectives They examine central legal ethical and knowledge based dilemmas in custody dispute proceedings The findings speak to an international audience and suggest ways how to best realize the interests of the child It transcends disciplinary institutional and jurisdictional boundaries in search of new knowledge

Justifying Interventions in Africa N. Wilén, 2012-02-21 This new paperback edition of Justifying Interventions in Africa includes a new preface written by Professor Annika Björkdahl from Lund University Analysing the UN interventions in Liberia Burundi and the Congo Wilén poses the question of how one can stabilize a state through external intervention without destabilizing sovereignty She critically examines the justifications for international and regional interventions through a social constructivist framework

Exploring the Implications of Local and Regional Conflicts Pietrzak, Piotr, 2024-12-05 In today's turbulent global landscape the proliferation of local and regional conflicts presents a formidable challenge to policymakers and scholars alike. From the War in Yemen to the Civil War in Syria these conflicts not only have a devastating toll on human lives but also threaten the stability of the international order. As the world grapples with the complexities of post Cold War geopolitics there is an urgent need for a comprehensive framework to understand and address these pressing issues. Exploring the Implications of Local and Regional Conflicts is a groundbreaking resource meticulously curated for academics and professionals in current affairs and security studies. This essential volume offers a multidimensional analysis of critical conflicts shedding light on their underlying dynamics and implications for global power dynamics. Drawing from disciplines such as geoeconomics geopolitics and security studies it equips readers with the analytical tools needed to navigate the complexities of this turbulent world.

Challenges for the Democratisation Process in Tanzania Jonas Ewald, 2013. Tanzania has been independent for 50 years. While most neighbouring states have gone through violent conflicts Tanzania has managed to implement extensive reforms without armed political conflicts. Hence Tanzania is an interesting case for Peace and Development research. This dissertation analyses the political development in Tanzania since the introduction of the multiparty system in 1992 with a focus on the challenges for the democratisation process in connection with the 2000 and 2005 elections. The question of to what extent Tanzania had moved towards a consolidation of democracy is analysed by looking at nine different institutions of importance for democratisation grouped in four spheres: the state, the political civil and economic society. Focus is on the development of the political society and the role of the opposition in particular. The analysis is based on secondary and primary material collected between September 2000 to April 2010. The main conclusion is that even if the institutions of liberal democracy have gradually developed in practice single party rule has continued. manifested in the 2005 election when the CCM won 92% of seats. Despite impressive economic growth poverty remains deep and has not been substantially reduced. On a theoretical level this brings the old debate between liberal and substantive democracy back to the fore. Neither the economic nor the political reforms have brought about a transformation of the political and economic system resulting in the poor majority gaining substantially more political influence and improved economic conditions. Hence it is argued that the interface between the economic political and administrative reforms has not been sufficiently considered in the liberal democratic tradition. Liberal democracy is necessary for a democratic development but not sufficient for democracy to be consolidated. For that a substantive democratic development is necessary.

Law and Spatial Planning Stefan Larsson, 2014-08-20. This PhD thesis in Spatial Planning argues for the importance of understanding the approaches to knowledge and rationalities embedded in spatially relevant decision making. It emphasises the significance of seeing law as an empirical object of study for planning and environmental management. The Swedish development of wind power and 3G mobile infrastructures are used as cases to study these issues of principal interest. It is a compilation thesis consisting of a comprehensive introductory framework and five articles or chapters that have also been published elsewhere.

The study is based on three main perspectives Level of decision making legitimacy of different forms of knowledge involved in the process and the sociolegal tension between formal law and its practical consequences The thesis deals with problems stemming from the multi level tensions in the planning and implementation that exist between the national the regional and the local authorities The legal context is analysed from the sociolegal perspective in particular how the juridification of siting and permit conflicts determines what type of knowledge that can legitimately affect the decision making and thereby set conditions for public participation Finally the thesis elaborates on the largely counterproductive results of the strong emphasis on efficiency in the revision of planning and permit processes for wind power and 3G infrastructure and what can be learnt from the experiences of the attempts at increasing efficiency A combination of methods has been employed in the studies and the data comes from a range of sources such as a large set of mast building permits a sample of wind permit cases as well as appealed permit cases In addition interviews have been conducted with judges from relevant courts including regional handling officers who assess wind turbine applications Legal documents such as preparatory work and licence conditions have also been analysed The results show that there is a legal rhetorical adaptation to the expert based decision making in court when permits are appealed Further the administrative levels interact poorly in the overall implementation The national decisions irrespective of the normative viewpoint of who should control the landscape planning could be better informed of the preconditions at a local level that factually define the outcome of the implementation

Recent Developments in Alternative Finance Fredj Jawadi, William A. Barnett, 2012-11-28 Since the global financial crisis began in 2008 2009 there has been a strong decline in financial markets and investment Alternative finance presents challenges intended to stimulate investment and promote economic growth and development This volume aims to provide the reader an understanding of alternative finance in its various forms
