(Im)politeness in McEwan's Fiction Urszula Kizelbach, 2023-02-22 This book is a pragma stylistic study of Ian McEwan's fiction providing a qualitative analysis of his selected novels using im politeness theory Im politeness is investigated on two levels of analysis the level of the plot and the story world intradiegetic level and the level of the communication between the implied author and implied reader in fiction extradiegetic level The pragmatic theory of im politeness serves the aim of internal characterisation and helps readers to better understand and explain the characters motivations and actions based on the stylistic analysis of their speech and thoughts and point of view More importantly the book introduces the notion of the impoliteness of the literary fiction a state of affairs where the implied author or narrator expresses their impolite beliefs to the reader through the text which has face threatening consequences for the audience e g moral shock or disgust dissociation from the protagonist feeling hurt or put out Extradiegetic impoliteness one of the key characteristics of McEwan s fiction offers an alternative to the literary concept of a secret communion of the author and reader Booth 1961 describing an ideal connection or good rapport between these two participants of fictional communication This book aims to unite literary scholars and linguists in the debate on the benefits of combining pragmatics and stylistics in literary analysis and it will be of interest to a wide audience in both fields

Troy M. Troftgruben,2010 Revision of author s thesis Ph D Princeton Theological Seminary 2009 Re-writing Pasts, Imagining Futures N. Gomia,Shang Ndi,2017-12-29 The papers in this volume focus on fiction and theatre in their traditional forms as well as in their encounters with novel and innovative forms and avenues of dissemination As a cultural practice that emerged from a process of protest and contestation of hegemony it is understandable that one main concern in African literature and literary criticism is the resistance against the emergence of marginalizing centers in formerly or currently marginalized societies with regard to discourses aesthetics and media of creation These new centers that sometimes undermine the strategic tactical exploitation of the relative advantage procured by each medium run the risk of leading to new forms of stratification that mitigate the import of African and African diasporic literatures The collection of essays therefore seeks to analyze the representation of pertinent socio political and historical questions in a variety of postcolonial texts from Africa and the African diasporas notably the Caribbean islands and the United States of America. However far from re-writing of history in a way that cedes to conservative worldviews, creative writers and critics simultaneously attempt to chart ways forward for socially all-inclusive futures. In the context of colonial and neo-colonial legacies that seem to forestall any sense of individual and collective self-fulfillment, contributors to this volume examine the pertinence of African fiction and theatre in imagining new vistas of re-conceptualizing the postcolonial condition in ways that re-galvanize the belief in an enabling future.

French Thought and Literary Theory in the UK Irving Goh, 2019-10-21 This collection presents a sort of counter-history or counter-genealogy of the globalization of French thought from the point of view of scholars working in the UK. While the dominating discourse would attribute the US as the source of that globalization, particularly through the 1966 conference on the Languages of Criticism and the Sciences of Man at Johns Hopkins University, this volume of essays serves as a reminder that the UK has also been a principal motor of that globalization. The essays take into account how French thought and literary theory have institutionally taken shape in the UK from the 70s to today, highlight aspects of French thought that have been of particular pertinence or importance for scholars there, and outline how researchers in the UK today are bringing French thought further in terms of teaching and research in this twenty-first century. In short, this volume traces how the country has been behind the reception and development of French thought in Anglophone worlds from the late 70s to the present.

In Search of Indian English Ranjan Kumar Auddy, 2019-11-11 This book presents a historical account of the development of an acrolectal variety of the English language in colonial India. It highlights the phenomenon of Indianization of the English language and its significance in the articulation of the Indian identity in pre-Independence India. This volume also discusses the sociocultural milieu in which English became the first choice for writers and political leaders. Using examples primarily from the writings of Rammohan Roy, Bankimchandra Krupabai Sathianadhan and Gandhi, and from the speeches of Vivekananda, Tagore and Subhas Bose, this book argues that prose written in English in the nineteenth and the early twentieth century scripted a nationalist discourse through its appropriation of the colonizer's language. It also examines how these works, which absorbed elements of Indian culture and languages, paved the path for the emergence of Indian English as a distinct dialect of the English language. This book will be useful for teachers, scholars and students of English literature, linguistics and cultural studies. It will also be of use to general readers interested in the history of the English language and the history of modern India.

Adaptation and Appropriation Julie Sanders, 2007-05-07 From the apparently simple adaptation of a text into film, theatre or a new literary work to the more complex appropriation of style or meaning it is arguable that all texts are somehow connected to a network of existing texts and art forms Adaptation and Appropriation explores multiple definitions and practices of adaptation and appropriation the cultural and aesthetic politics behind the impulse to adapt diverse ways in which contemporary literature and film adapt revise and reimagine other works of art the impact on adaptation and appropriation of theoretical movements including structuralism post structuralism postcolonialism postmodernism feminism and gender studies the appropriation across time and across cultures of specific canonical texts but also of literary archetypes such as myth or fairy tale Ranging across genres and harnessing concepts from fields as diverse as musicology and the natural sciences this volume brings clarity to the complex debates around adaptation and appropriation offering a much needed resource for those studying literature film or culture Dance Studies: The
