Pain Pathways in the Spinal Cord and Brain. When stimulated, pain fibers release substance P, particularly in the dorsal horns of the spinal cord and trigeminal nuclei of the pons. Substance P elicits impulses going to the midbrain, thalamus, other parts of the limbic system, and somatic sensory cortex. These parts jointly perceive pain.

Whipp, 2012-12-06 The origins of what have come to be known as the Oxford Conferences on modelling and the control of breathing can be traced back to a discussion between Dan Cunningham and Richard Hercynski at a conference dinner at the Polish Academy of Sciences in 1971 Each felt that they had benefited from the different perspectives from which the topic of ventilatory control was approached predominantly physiological in the case of Dr Cunningham and predominantly mathematical in the case of Dr Hercynski Their judgement at that time was that a conference on the control of breathing which allowed investigators with these different but related scientific perspectives to present and discuss their work might prove fruitful We would judge that this has amply been borne out based upon the success of the series of conferences which resulted from that seminal dinner conversation The first conference entitled Modelling of a Biological Control System The Regulation of Breathing was held in Oxford UK in 1978 Subsequent conferences were Modelling and the Control of Breathing at Lake Arrowhead California in 1982 Concepts and Formulations in the Control of Breathing in Solignac France in 1985 Respiratory Control A Modeling Perspective at Grand Lakes Colorado in 1988 and Control of Breathing and Its Modelling Perspective at the Fuji Institute in Japan in 1991 The conferences subsequent to the one in Oxford have all resulted in well received published proceedings      NIH Advisory Committees National Institutes of Health (U.S.).
