Abstracts of Public Administration, Development, and Environment ,2009 Geo Year Book 2007 Unep,United Nations Environment Programme, Geo Year Book 2007 United Nations Environment Programme, The Regulation and Policy of Latin American Energy Transitions Lucas Noura Guimarães,2020-02-19 The Regulation and Policy of Latin American Energy Transitions examines the ongoing revolution within the energy landscape of Latin America This book includes real world examples from across the continent to demonstrate the current landscape of energy policy in Latin America It focuses on distributed energy resources including distributed generation energy efficiency and microgrids but also addresses the role of less common energy sources such as geothermal and biogas as well as discusses the changing role of energy actors where consumers become prosumers or prosumagers and utilities become service providers The legal frameworks that are still hampering the transformation of the energy landscape are explored together with an analysis of the economic planning related and social aspects of energy transitions which can help address the issue of how inequalities are affecting and being affected by energy transitions The book is suitable for policy makers lawyers economists and social science professionals working with energy policy as well as researchers and industry professionals in the field It is an ideal source for anyone involved in energy policy and regulation across Latin America A Complete Guide to the Environment, Climate Change, and Disaster Management Rupak Dey,Seema B. Sharma,2023-08-18 The environment and climate change are the most important issues in the modern world This book will contribute to a better understanding of concepts in the field of the environment and other related fields as well as assisting students in scoring higher marks in a number of competitive exams This book is focused on the environment including subjects like environmental ecology hydrogeology bio diversity natural hazards and disaster management climate change and other environmental problems Some of the topics discussed in the book include environmental laws soil science natural disasters the Earth s internal structure sea floor spreading plate tectonics food chains carbon sequestration agriculture ecological succession and government and non governmental organizations working in the field of environmental issues among others Renewable Energies for Central Asia Countries: Economic, Environmental and Social Impacts Aldo Iacomelli,2006-07-02 In the last few years awareness and worries about the exhaustion of natural resources are increasing but this fact is still very much discussed about its analytical measurement and therefore not yet demonstrated However what has been demonstrated is that the 6 billion inhabitants of the Earth move every kind of goods and wares around the world at about 8 tons per capita which means about 50 billion tons per year This is the same amount as is moved yearly by natural forces such as winds eruptions earthquakes rain Since the Kyoto Protocol entered into force on 16 February 2005 an investment on rational use of energy savings and efficiency is the main premise supporting the development of new energy sources needed to meet the target of the KP and UNFCCC If energy consumption decreases renewable sources could cover a significant part of the demand of energy in particular electricity if consumption remains uselessly high because inefficient and less energy consuming acting also on final uses renewable energy would become a reality a feasible method even in these sectors With investments being equal today all in the sector of generation from fossil sources if there were parallel researches on how to reduce consumption and wastes considerably at least 35% and on power plants from renewable sources there would be also a reduction of gas emissions without any negative influence on development New technologies and new energy products will play a crucial role in the development of a market of sustainable energy products that should grow in a competitive way cost effective to stand against the challenge of change

Tropical Rainforests and Agroforests under Global Change Teja

Tscharntke, Christoph Leuschner, Edzo Veldkamp, Heiko Faust, Edi Guhardja, Arifuddin Bidin, 2010-02-04 not only for land use systems that depend on the regular supply of rain or irrigation water but also for the future development of natural rainforests as drought stress has been shown to affect tree growth and species composition in old growth forests Wright 1991 Walsh and Newbery 1999 Engelbrecht et al 2007 A drought experiment conducted in a cacao agroforestry plantation showed that this plantation was surprisingly resilient to an induced drought of more than a year Schwendenmann et al 2009 However droughts can have a strong impact on household incomes from agriculture they strongly affect the vulnerability to poverty and thus have to be analyzed as important exogenous shocks to households forcing them to adjust their behaviour and develop strategies to cope with these problems The stability of rainforest margins is a critical factor in the protection of tropical rainforests Tscharntke et al 2007 At present however rainforest margins in many parts of the tropics are far from stable both in socioeconomic and in ecological terms For example protected areas may attract rather than repel human settlement which may be due to international donor investment in national conservation programs Wittemeyer et al 2008 An alternative hypothesis is that protected areas might be compromised if leakage takes place that is if impacts that would take place inside the restricted area are displaced to a nearby undisturbed area Ewers and Rodrigues 2008
