Its theoretical framework and grounded discussions engage students to think clearly and systematically about dilemmas in the rapidly changing media environment. The 13 chapter text is organized around six decision making questions: the 5Ws and H of media ethics. The questions encourage students to articulate the issues, apply codes, policies or laws, consider the needs of stakeholders, sift and sort through conflicting values, integrate philosophic principles and pose a test of publicity. Specifically the questions ask: What's your problem? Why not follow the rules? Who wins who loses? What's it worth? Who's whispering in your ear? How's your decision going to look? As they progress through the text, students are encouraged to resolve dozens of practical applications and increasingly complex case studies relating to journalism, new media, advertising, public relations and entertainment. Other distinctive features include: Comprehensive materials on classic moral theory and current issues such as truth telling and deception, values, persuasion and propaganda, privacy, diversity and loyalty. A user friendly approach that challenges students to think for themselves rather than imposing answers on them. Consistent connections between theories and the decision making challenges posed in the practical applications and case studies. Roger C Hutchinson who over many decades has encouraged and participated in shaping a Canadian contextual social ethics. His abiding interest in social ethics and in religious engagement with public issues is reflected in his life's work seeking the consensus and self knowledge required to achieve cooperation in the search for a just participatory and sustainable society. One of Roger Hutchinson's many notable accomplishments is his development of a method of dialogue for ethical clarification in situations of diversity. Some of the essays collected here apply this method to specific issues while others discuss how religious persons and organizations can and do co operate in a pluralistic world to achieve social and ecological well being. All essays are of keen interest to those concerned with the role and function of ethics at the matrix of religious conviction and social transformation. For nearly three decades Roger Hutchinson has been based at Victoria University in Toronto first in religious studies then at Emmanuel College where he completed his teaching career as professor of church and society while serving as principal from 1996 to 2001.

Winning Votes by Abusing Reason Jamie Carlin Watson, 2016-12-14 Over the past few decades psychologists have discovered that human reasoning is defective in surprising ways. We are beset by numerous biases and heuristics which lead us to reason poorly about things that matter to us. And while there are illuminating evolutionary explanations for how these biases and heuristics may have benefited our species in its phylogeny, psychologists are unanimous that these cognitive dispositions largely corrupt rather than aid our belief forming practices. In Winning Votes by Abusing Reason: Political Rhetoric and Responsible Belief Jamie Watson argues that political rhetoric rather than helping us overcome these defects exacerbates them. And standard attempts to address this problem such as deliberative democracy and paternalism tend to either exclude citizens from important decisions or give them the illusion of reasoning well, perpetuating poor and irresponsible political beliefs. This book concludes that rather than attempt more political solutions, the most promising approach to forming and preserving responsible political beliefs is to adopt individual principles of epistemic caution. The author brings together insights from political philosophy, social epistemology, behavioral psychology and agnotology to suggest how we might protect our belief forming behavior from the corrosive effects of political rhetoric. Recommended for scholars of philosophy, rhetoric, political science and communications.
