Down Syndrome:

Down's Syndrome Janet H. Carr, 1995-11-24 The most common most easily recognised and probably the most researched single condition causing learning disability Down s syndrome Based on extensive interviews and questionnaires focusing on fundamental issues of development and upbringing Dr Carr has followed the lives of a population based cohort of Down s syndrome subjects from birth to early adulthood This volume details particularly the development of study groups between the ages 11 and 21 years with a longitudinal perspective reference to earlier years as appropriate A wide range of factors are investigated from behaviour discipline and independence through to effects on the family and the provision of help from services The collection of this unique data spanning the first 21 years of life enables Dr Carr to offer discussion and advice which will be of international relevance and an invaluable reference for all those concerned with the care health and well being of Down s syndrome individuals and their families

Reading and Writing Development for Infants with Down Syndrome (0-5 Years) Gillian Bird, Sue Buckley, 2001

Screening for Down's Syndrome J. G. Grudzinskas, 1994-11-17 This important new publication summarises the recent exciting advances in screening for Down s syndrome It addresses important clinical questions such as risk assessment who to screen when to screen which techniques to use and the organisation of screening programmes nationally and internationally An international and authoritative team of authors has been invited to assess the latest developments in this rapidly advancing area The volume provides a critical and much needed evaluation of the potential and limitations of new and established techniques for screening for Down s syndrome It will serve as an essential source of information for all those involved in pre natal diagnosis and the provision of obstetric care

Down's Syndrome Screening and Reproductive Politics Gareth M. Thomas, 2017-03-16 Nominated for the Foundation of Sociology of Health and Illness Book Prize 2018 In the UK and beyond Down s syndrome screening has become a universal programme in prenatal care But why does screening persist particularly in light of research that highlights pregnant women s ambivalent and problematic experiences with it Drawing on an ethnography of Down s syndrome screening in two UK clinics Thomas explores how and why we are so invested in this practice and what effects this has on those involved Informed by theoretical approaches that privilege the mundane and micro practices discourses materials and rituals of everyday life Down s Syndrome Screening and Reproductive Politics describes the banal world of the clinic and in particular the professionals contained within it who are responsible for delivering this programme In so doing it illustrates how Down s syndrome screening is downgraded and subsequently stabilised as a routine part of a pregnancy Further the book captures how this routinisation is deepened by a systematic but subtle framing of Down s syndrome as a negative pregnancy outcome By unpacking the complex relationships between professionals parents technology policy and clinical practice Thomas identifies how and why screening is successfully routinised and how it is embroiled in both new and familiar debates surrounding pregnancy ethics choice diagnosis care disability and parenthood The book will appeal to academics students and professionals interested in medical sociology medical anthropology science and technology studies STS bioethics genetics and or disability studies Genetics and Neurobiology of Down Syndrome Bani Bandana Ganguly,2022-08-21
