Doing a Master's Dissertation in TESOL and Applied Linguistics Lindy Woodrow, 2019-10-11 Doing a Master's Dissertation in TESOL and Applied Linguistics is a practical guide for master's students tackling research and research writing for the first time. Structured for use in class or as part of an independent study and divided into the four stages of designing, researching, writing up and submitting a dissertation, this book carefully guides readers from the very beginning of producing a research proposal all the way through to assessment procedures and the provisions for resubmission. It covers publishing your dissertation and applying for higher research degrees including funding addresses all the most fundamental concerns students have about master's dissertations including how to choose a topic and conducting a literature review. It draws upon examples from master's dissertations from the UK, US and Australia and provides numerous how-to tables and checklists and includes activities and resources to facilitate master's research and dissertation writing as well as FAQs and solutions at the end of each chapter. Tailormade for MA students in TESOL or Applied Linguistics, this book is essential reading for students on these degrees around the world as well as for their supervisors and programme directors.

Introduction to Stochastic Processes Using R Sivaprasad Madhira, Shailaja Deshmukh, 2023-11-03 This textbook presents some basic stochastic processes, mainly Markov processes. It begins with a brief introduction to the framework of stochastic processes followed by the thorough discussion on Markov chains, which is the simplest and the most important class of stochastic processes. The book then elaborates the theory of Markov chains in detail, including classification of states, the first passage distribution, the concept of periodicity and the limiting behaviour of a Markov chain in terms of associated stationary and long-run distributions. The book first illustrates the theory for some typical Markov chains such as random walk, gambler's ruin problem, Ehrenfest model and Bienayme Galton Watson branching process and then extends the discussion when time parameter is continuous. It presents some important examples of a continuous time Markov chain which include Poisson process, birth process, death process, birth and death processes and their variations. These processes play a fundamental role in the theory and applications in queuing and inventory models, population growth, epidemiology and engineering systems. The book studies in detail the Poisson process, which is the most frequently applied stochastic process in a variety of fields with its extension to a renewal process. The book also presents important basic concepts on Brownian motion process, a stochastic process of historic importance. It covers its few extensions and variations such as Brownian bridge, geometric Brownian motion process, which have applications in finance, stock markets, inventory etc. The book is designed primarily to serve as a textbook for a one-semester introductory course in stochastic processes in a post-graduate program such as Statistics, Mathematics, Data Science and Finance. It can also be used for relevant courses in other disciplines. Additionally, it provides sufficient background material for studying inference in stochastic processes The book thus fulfils the need of a concise but clear and student friendly introduction to various types of stochastic processes Handbook of Psychology, Research Methods in Psychology Irving B.
