Postcolonial Readings of Music in World Literature Cameron Fae Bushnell, 2013 This book reads representations of Western music in literary texts to reveal the ways in which artifacts of imperial culture function within contemporary world literature Bushnell argues that Western music's conventions for performance composition and listening established during the colonial period persist in postcolonial thought and practice Music from the Baroque Classical and Romantic periods Bach through Brahms coincides with the rise of colonialism and Western music contains imperial attitudes and values embedded within its conventions standards and rules The book focuses on the culture of classical music as reflected in the worlds of characters and texts and contends that its effects outlast the historical significance of the real composers pieces styles and forms Through examples by authors such as McEwan Vikram Seth Bernard MacLaverly Chang rae Lee and J M Coetzee the book demonstrates how Western music enters narrative as both acts of history and as structures of analogy that suggest subject positions human relations and political activity that in turn describes a postcolonial condition The uses to which Western music is put in each literary text reveals how European art music of the seventeenth through the nineteenth centuries is read and misread by postcolonial generations exposing mostly hidden cultural structures that influence our contemporary understandings of social relations and hierarchies norms for resolution and for assigning significance and standards of propriety The book presents strategies for thinking anew about the persistence of cultural imperialism reading Western music simultaneously as representative of imperial cultural dominance and as suggestive of resistant structures forms and practices that challenge the imperial hegemony
