

The background of the cover is a complex, abstract geometric pattern. It consists of numerous thin, dark purple lines that intersect to form a dense network of triangles and other polygons. Some of these shapes are filled with a solid orange color, while others are left empty, creating a sense of depth and complexity. The overall effect is reminiscent of a network diagram or a molecular structure.

Bibliometrics And Research Evaluation Uses And Abuses History And Foundations Of Information Science:

Bibliometrics and Research Evaluation Yves Gingras, 2016-10-07 Why bibliometrics is useful for understanding the global dynamics of science but generate perverse effects when applied inappropriately in research evaluation and university rankings The research evaluation market is booming Ranking metrics h index and impact factors are reigning buzzwords Government and research administrators want to evaluate everything teachers professors training programs universities using quantitative indicators Among the tools used to measure research excellence bibliometrics aggregate data on publications and citations has become dominant Bibliometrics is hailed as an objective measure of research quality a quantitative measure more useful than subjective and intuitive evaluation methods such as peer review that have been used since scientific papers were first published in the seventeenth century In this book Yves Gingras offers a spirited argument against an unquestioning reliance on bibliometrics as an indicator of research quality Gingras shows that bibliometric rankings have no real scientific validity rarely measuring what they pretend to Although the study of publication and citation patterns at the proper scales can yield insights on the global dynamics of science over time ill defined quantitative indicators often generate perverse and unintended effects on the direction of research Moreover abuse of bibliometrics occurs when data is manipulated to boost rankings Gingras looks at the politics of evaluation and argues that using numbers can be a way to control scientists and diminish their autonomy in the evaluation process Proposing precise criteria for establishing the validity of indicators at a given scale of analysis Gingras questions why universities are so eager to let invalid indicators influence their research strategy on collecting transcribing annotating analyzing storing and sharing linguistic research data This volume offers a guide to linguistic data management engaging with current trends toward the transformation of linguistics into a more data driven and reproducible scientific endeavor It offers both principles and methods presenting the conceptual foundations of linguistic data management and a series of case studies each of which demonstrates a concrete application of abstract principles in a current practice In part 1 contributors bring together knowledge from information science archiving and data stewardship relevant to linguistic data management Topics covered include implementation principles archiving data finding and using datasets and the valuation of time and effort involved in data management Part 2 presents snapshots of practices across various subfields with each chapter presenting a unique data management project with generalizable guidance for researchers The Open Handbook of Linguistic Data Management is an essential addition to the toolkit of every linguist guiding researchers toward making their data FAIR Findable Accessible Interoperable and Reusable The Quantified Scholar Juan Pablo Pardo-Guerra, 2022-08-30 Since 1986 the British government faced with dwindling budgets and growing calls for public accountability has sought to assess the value of scholarly work in the nation s universities Administrators have periodically evaluated the research of most full time academics employed in British universities seeking to distribute increasingly scarce funding to those who use it best How do such attempts to quantify the worth of knowledge change the nature of scholarship Juan Pablo Pardo Guerra examines the effects of quantitative research evaluations on British social scientists arguing that the mission to measure academic excellence resulted in less diversity and more disciplinary conformity Combining interviews and original computational analyses The Quantified Scholar provides a compelling account of how scores metrics and standardized research evaluations altered the incentives of scientists and administrators by rewarding forms of scholarship that were closer to established disciplinary canons In doing so research evaluations amplified publication hierarchies and long standing forms of academic prestige to the detriment of diversity Slowly but surely they reshaped academic departments the interests of scholars the organization of disciplines and the employment conditions of researchers Critiquing the effects of quantification on the workplace this book also presents alternatives to existing forms of evaluation calling for new forms of vocational solidarity that can challenge entrenched inequality in academia Springer Handbook of Science and Technology Indicators Wolfgang Glänzel, Henk F. Moed, Ulrich Schmoch, Mike Thelwall, 2019-10-30 This handbook presents the state of the art of quantitative methods and models to understand and assess the science and technology system Focusing on various aspects of the development and application of indicators derived from data on scholarly publications patents and electronic communications the individual chapters written by leading experts discuss theoretical and methodological issues illustrate applications highlight their policy context and relevance and point to future research directions A substantial portion of the book is dedicated to detailed descriptions and analyses of data sources presenting both traditional and advanced approaches It addresses the main bibliographic metrics and indexes such as the journal impact factor and the h index as well as altmetric and webometric indicators and science mapping techniques on different levels of aggregation and in the context of their value for the assessment of research performance as well as their impact on research policy and society It also presents and critically discusses various national research evaluation systems Complementing the sections reflecting on the science system the technology section includes multiple chapters that explain different aspects of patent statistics patent classification and database search methods to retrieve patent related information In addition it examines the relevance of trademarks and standards as additional technological indicators The Springer Handbook of Science and Technology Indicators is an invaluable resource for practitioners scientists and policy makers wanting a systematic and thorough analysis of the potential and limitations of the various approaches to assess research and research performance

Science under siege Peter Banks, Daniel Lunney, Chris Dickman, 2012-11-01 On Saturday 29 November 2008 the Royal Zoological Society of NSW held a forum with the theme of Science under siege As the RZS is a zoological society zoology under threat became the secondary theme and the basis for selecting speakers This book records that forum with the papers developed for this book as the written word from the spoken presentations Papers that were presented as posters are included as are the edited plenary sessions which featured questions from the floor with answers and comments encouraged from anyone in the forum We were delighted that Mark Horstman from ABC Catalyst was willing to replace his peripatetic colleague Paul Willis who was nonetheless very happy to write the foreword There is a place for such skilled science communicators we need more of them and scientists at the lab bench or in the field or exploring computer models or those that have now taken a job in the policy world need to stay in touch with them Some might say that the title Science under siege seems a bit extreme but we invite you to examine the evidence as presented in this book What follows is an edited version of the introductory material that advertised the forum The title looks dramatic but if you ask yourself is anything killing the science in your area of interest you might be surprised that you come up with a point or two Then ask a wider set of questions such as are there any pressures that preclude people from doing good zoology do either political budgetary constraints impact on your field is science in the media a subject that influences the outcome of your work are there economic impediments to careers in zoology is the education mix in Australia right for this new century are the best researchers becoming full time administrators or the converse the poor researchers becoming the administrators can you place the Australian situation in an international context are there reduced opportunities for human interactions with the natural world is the virtual world killing reality and what are your predictions of the future To deal with such issues the Royal Zoological Society of NSW has structured the day to emphasize a range of themes beginning with identifying the issues including those that are persistent and those that are emerging and encompassing palpable hits to science Direct and indirect hits to science include such matters as the withdrawal of funding subversion of science death by 1000 cuts redirection of funding to fashion issues and

using the name of science to justify things that are really not justifiable The name of science is being dragged down We need to confront the ever present problem of ignoring the scientifically accurate for the politically correct This raises such questions as to whether basic skills in biology are not being acquired because of public concern based on extreme animal rights propaganda Good science is not optional but what can be done if you are under siege The answers include understanding the philosophy of science the legal perspective and asking what scientists are or should be doing Audience participation will be a central part of this forum The plenary sessions will address questions raised by the speakers and the posters and debate issues and consider options for future directions It is widely known that it is hard to pull a major paper together on this theme but so many scientists know of at least one matter that they would like to draw to public attention So short contributions are included Listen to the speakers present some overarching themes or compelling case studies contribute to the debate on the day then examine your stance on a variety of these subjects to see whether the day changes your view of this often cryptic aspect of zoology As editors we wish to acknowledge the skills of the referees all papers were refereed by two peers and the patience of the authors for what has been a long gap between the date of the forum and this publication By the end of 2008 the Royal Zoological Society of NSW along with everyone else was caught by the GFC Global Financial Crisis and we simply had to extend the length of the queue for publication We also reassessed our mode of publication The Council of the Society voted to publish this production as an ebook as well as a short print run for formal library deposit and other essential matters The ebook is open access to enhance the reach of the papers and the ideas At the same time the Royal Zoological Society of NSW signed a contract for a more international mode of access of the publications of the Society and papers are now available via Metapress <http://rzsnsw.metapress.com> Science remains under siege in our view and now we have been alerted to the range of issues it becomes easier to spot the small irritating closing of options that collectively amount to a denial of science and its relegation to an optional way of looking at the world During production of this book this matter became obvious on a number of fronts which led us to invite the paper by Rosie Cooney and colleagues to defend their science of kangaroo conservation and commercial harvesting from an attack on the science We also saw that this issue of science under siege needs more airing and the Royal Zoological Society of NSW is planning its forum for the end of 2012 to take up another strand of this theme by capitalizing on the lifelong insights of scientists under the rubric of grumpy scientists an ecological conscience of a nation This idea in fact derives directly from the suggestions in the plenary sessions by Nick Holmes and Charley Krebs We are also concerned for young scientists with science under siege manifesting often in a failure to create permanent careers for science graduates that advance science itself and zoology in particular from flourishing and identifying problems and finding solutions If we want to conserve the native fauna of Australia then Australian zoologists will have to be key team members We contend that to put science under siege and zoology under threat we not only further imperil our native wildlife but also the careers of the small band of specialists that can see the issues find the problems implement solutions and evaluate the outcomes In short science under siege is not a light matter and no one in this forum thought so Read on form an opinion and speak up and publish your thoughts your examples and your solutions
