Models Soraya de Chadarevian, Nick Hopwood, 2004 Now that 3 D models are so often digital displays on flat screens it is timely to look back at the solid models that were once the third dimension of science This book is about wooden ships and plastic molecules wax bodies and a perspex economy monuments in cork and mathematics in plaster casts of diseases habitat dioramas and extinct monsters rebuilt in bricks and mortar These remarkable artefacts were fixtures of laboratories and lecture halls studios and workshops dockyards and museums Considering such objects together for the first time this interdisciplinary volume demonstrates how in research as well as in teaching 3 D models played major roles in making knowledge Accessible and original chapters by leading scholars highlight the special properties of models explore the interplay between representation in two dimensions and three and investigate the shift to modelling with computers The book is fascinating reading for anyone interested in the sciences medicine and technology and in collections and museums

Greek Bronze Statuary Carol C. Mattusch, 2019-05-15 Freestanding bronze statuary was the primary mode of artistic expression in classical Greece yet it was not until the nineteenth century that any original large statues of that period were unearthed Although ancient literature has preserved information about the most famous Greek sculptors who worked in bronze our perception of the art has been limited by the small number of extant originals from the sixth and fifth centuries B C there remain fewer than ten large cast bronze statues a like number of bronze heads an assortment of fragments and some clay molds for casting Carol Mattusch enriches our knowledge of this beloved but elusive art form in a comprehensive study of the style and techniques of bronze statuary during the Archaic 6th century B C and Classical 5th century B C periods
