Duties Regarding Nature Toby Svoboda, 2015-06-26 In this book Toby Svoboda develops and defends a Kantian environmental virtue ethic challenging the widely held view that Kant's moral philosophy has little to offer environmental ethics On the contrary Svoboda contends that on Kantian grounds there is good moral reason to care about non human organisms in their own right and to value their flourishing independently of human interests since doing so is constitutive of certain environmental virtues Svoboda argues that Kant's account of indirect duties regarding nature can ground a compelling environmental ethic the Kantian duty to develop morally virtuous dispositions strictly proscribes unnecessarily harming organisms and it also gives us moral reason to act in ways that benefit such organisms Svoboda's account engages the recent literature on environmental virtue including Rosalind Hursthouse Philip Cafaro Ronald Sandler Thomas Hill and Louke van Wensveen and provides an original argument for an environmental ethic firmly rooted in Kant's moral philosophy

Global Epistemologies and Philosophies of Science David Ludwig, Inkeri Koskinen, Zinhle Mncube, Luana Poliseli, Luis Reyes-Galindo, 2021-07-29 In bringing together a global community of philosophers Global Epistemologies and Philosophies of Science develops novel perspectives on epistemology and philosophy of science by demonstrating how frameworks from academic philosophy e.g. standpoint theory social epistemology feminist philosophy of science and related fields e.g. decolonial studies transdisciplinarity global history of science can contribute to critical engagement with global dimensions of knowledge and science Global challenges such as climate change food production and infectious diseases raise complex questions about scientific knowledge production and its interactions with local knowledge systems and social realities As academic philosophy provides relatively little reflection on global negotiations of knowledge many pressing scientific and societal issues remain disconnected from core debates in epistemology and philosophy of science This book is an invitation to broaden agendas of academic philosophy by presenting epistemology and philosophy of science as globally engaged fields that address heterogeneous forms of knowledge production and their interactions with local livelihoods practices and worldviews This integrative ambition makes the book equally relevant for philosophers and interdisciplinary scholars who are concerned with methodological and political challenges at the intersection of science and society
