the science of psychology relevant spark their interest and excite their imaginations      Life Span Perspectives of Suicide A.A. Leenaars, 2013-06-29 In recent years a great deal of interest has been focused on suicide in the elderly and in the young However in line with modern trends in psychology sociology psychiatry anthropology and other human health fields interest has now shifted to suicide across the life span from childhood through adulthood to old age This book has been conceptualized within this developing tradition There are various ways in which life's timelines can be conceptualized Developmental theory we believe should be open ended This has widened and will continue to widen our understanding of many complicated human acts including suicide Though suicide is in many ways the same across the entire life span understanding the time lines in the suicidal process is imperative To do so however is we believe challenging In this volume we attempt to engage in the process of understanding suicide from a developmental perspective To do this we have been fortunate to obtain the cooperation of a highly competent group of contributors One interesting footnote to our list of authorities is that they represent suicidologists from across the life span a few who are at the beginning of their careers a large number in their middle years and a few who are in the Indian summer of their professional lives      Knowledge Grid,
