High precision cleaning is required across a wide range of sectors including aerospace, defense, medical device manufacturing, pharmaceutical processing, semiconductor electronics, etc. Cleaning parts and surfaces with solvents is simple, effective, and low cost. Although health and safety and environmental concerns come into play with the use of solvents, this book explores how safe and compliant solvent-based cleaning techniques can be implemented. A key to this is the selection of the right solvent. The author also examines a range of newer green solvent cleaning options. This book supplies scientific fundamentals and practical guidance supported by real-world examples. Durkee explains the three principal methods of solvent selection: matching of solubility parameters, reduction of potential for smog formation, and matching of physical properties. He also provides guidance on the safe use of aerosols, wipe cleaning techniques, solvent stabilization, economics, and many other topics. A compendium of blend rules is included, covering the physical, chemical, and environmental properties of solvents. Three methods are explained in detail for substitution of suitable solvents for those unsuitable for any reason: toxic solvents don't have to be tolerated. This volume explains how to do better. Enables users to make informed judgments about their selection of cleaning solvents for specific applications, including solvent replacement decisions. Explains how to plan and implement solvent cleaning systems that are effective, economical, and compliant with regulations.

Solvent Gels for the Cleaning of Works of Art Dusan Stulik, 2004. The cleaning of a work of art often involves removing not only dirt and grime but also unwanted layers of varnish, gilding, and paint from the work's surface. The challenge for conservators lies in finding a cleaning agent that will act on one layer without affecting the layer being preserved and without leaving any harmful residues on the cleaned work. This book, which examines gel cleaning in the treatment of paintings and painted works of art, presents the methodologies, data, and results of a collaborative project of the Getty Conservation Institute and Winterthur Museum. Among the issues covered are the theory and application of gel cleaning systems, the detection of residues left on the surfaces of objects cleaned with these systems, research into solvent gel and solvent residues, stability of surfactants during natural and artificial aging, and recommendations for formulating gels for specific cleaning tasks.
