Divorcing Traditions Katherine Lemons, 2019-03-15 Divorcing Traditions is an ethnography of Islamic legal expertise and practices in India a secular state in which Muslims are a significant minority and where Islamic judgments are not legally binding Katherine Lemons argues that an analysis of divorce in accordance with Islamic strictures is critical to the understanding of Indian secularism Lemons analyzes four marital dispute adjudication forums run by Muslim jurists or lay Muslims to show that religious law does not muddle the categories of religion and law but generates them Drawing on ethnographic and archival research conducted in these four institutions NGO run women s arbitration centers mahila panchayats sharia courts dar ul qazas a Muslim jurist s authoritative legal opinions fatwas and the practice of what a Muslim legal expert mufti calls spiritual healing Divorcing Traditions shows how secularism is an ongoing project that seeks to establish and maintain an appropriate relationship between religion and politics A secular state is always secularizing And yet as Lemons demonstrates the state is not the only arbiter of the relationship between religion and law religious legal forums help to constitute the categories of private and public religious and secular upon which secularism relies In the end because Muslim legal expertise and practice are central to the Indian legal system and because Muslim divorce s contested legal status marks a crisis of the secular distinction between religion and law Muslim divorce argues Lemons is a key site for understanding Indian secularism

Adjudicating Family Law in Muslim Courts Elisa Giunchi, 2013-12-04 While there are many books on Islamic family law the literature on its enforcement is scarce This book focuses on how Islamic family law is interpreted and applied by judges in a range of Muslim countries Sunni and Shi'a as well as Arab and non Arab It thereby aids the understanding of shari'a law in practice in a number of different cultural and political settings It shows how the existence of differing views of what shari'a is as well as the presence of a vast body of legal material which judges can refer to make it possible for courts to interpret Islamic law in creative and innovative ways Adjudication in Religious Family Laws Gopika Solanki, 2011-04-25 This book argues that the shared adjudication model in which the state splits its adjudicative authority with religious groups and other societal sources in the regulation of marriage can potentially balance cultural rights and gender equality In this model the civic and religious sources of legal authority construct transmit and communicate heterogeneous notions of the conjugal family gender relations and religious membership within the interstices of state and society In so doing they fracture the homogenized religious identities grounded in hierarchical gender relations within the conjugal family The shared adjudication model facilitates diversity as it allows the construction of hybrid religious identities creates fissures in ossified group boundaries and provides institutional spaces for ongoing intersocietal dialogue This pluralized legal sphere governed by ideologically diverse legal actors can thus increase gender equality and individual and collective legal mobilization by women effects institutional change

Hindu Law Werner Menski, 2008-09-10 This book presents a study on a postmodernist analysis of classical Hindu law which has become neglected due to the modernist assumptions about the increasing irrelevance of religious legal systems The book is split into three parts The first part focuses on the historical and conceptual background of Hindu law while the second part concentrates on five facets of Hindu law that go beyond tradition and modernity namely the Hindu marriage law child marriage polygamy divorce and the maintenance law Finally the third part presents a concluding analysis to the preceding chapters where it presents the postmodern condition of Hindu law

Divorce and Democracy Saumya Saxena, 2022-08-25 This book demonstrates that family law arguably the most visible sphere of such contestation emerged as a particularly hospitable arena for conversations between religious and legal regimes to institute the normative framework that could govern the domestic lives of citizens The work illustrates how the codification of religious personal laws permitted the Indian state to enter into an intimate dialogue with citizens largely mediated through religion. Thus through this process the state also secured monopoly over determining what constituted religion as well as the right to determine the validity and scope of religious practices. This book therefore suggests that religious personal law played a key role in determining the legal place for religion in India's secular democracy. The controversy on the issue of personal law has contributed to a unique evolution of both the rule of law and the doctrine of secularism in twentieth century India. By tracing the response of legislature, the courts and civil society movements to the question of cultural rights and notions of abstract citizenship, this book exhibits how the translation of marriage and divorce laws of Hindu, Muslim and Christian communities into statutes introduced new questions on the tenuous links between the law and the sacred as well as on the problematic rhetoric of the reformative potential of law. Muslim Politics in India Srikanta Ghosh, 1987

Religion as Empowerment Kyriaki Topidi, Lauren Fielder, 2016-06-10 This volume shows how and why legal empowerment is important for those exercising their religious rights under various jurisdictions in conditions of legal pluralism. At the same time it also questions the thesis that as societies become more modern they also become less religious. The authors look beyond the rule of law orthodoxy in their consideration of the freedom of religion as a human right and place this discussion in a more plurality sensitive context. The book sheds more light on the informal and/or customary mechanisms that explain the limited impact of law on individuals and groups especially in non-Western societies. The focus is on discussing how religion and the exercise of religious rights may or may not empower individuals and social groups and improve access to human rights in general. This book is important reading for academics and practitioners of law and religion, religious rights, religious diversity and cultural difference as well as NGOs, policy makers, lawyers and advocates at multicultural jurisdictions. It offers a contemporary take on comparative legal studies with a distinct focus on religion as an identity marker. The Literature Times Vol 1 Issue 4 The Literature Times, The Literature Times is delighted to present its 4th issue. Marriage, matrimonial relationship or wedlock in India has secured a sacred place and it is a general conception that marriage is a heavenly creature which is celebrated on earth. In India, marriage is a sacred bonding between two heterogeneous persons by which kinship is created and mutual rights and obligations are generated by this relationship. It is
