Why do blood types exist?

Why?

Antigens (chemicals) on the surface of red blood cells are used by the immune system during when foreign cells or other potentially harmful substances in the body cause an immune response and fight off infections by pathogens. Rh factor and blood cells have a system for being recognized as either cells that belong in the body or foreign cells which cause the immune system to respond.

Model 1 – Red Blood Cells and Antibodies

	Person with Blood Type A	Person with Blood Type B	Person with Blood Type AB	Person with Blood Type O
Cell with surface antigen
Antibody produced
Cells in the presence of anti-B antibody
Cells in the presence of anti-A antibody

1. Blood types in the human population are determined by the presence or absence of antigens on the surface of the red blood cells.
  - a. According to Model 1, how many blood types are found in the human population?
  - b. What shape is used in Model 1 to represent an A antigen?
  - c. What shape is used in Model 1 to represent an B antigen?
2. What do you observe in type B red blood cells from a type B red blood cell?
