The Art & Science of Learning Design Marcelo Maina,Brock Craft,Yishay Mor,2015-07-21 We live in an era defined by a wealth of open and readily available information and the accelerated evolution of social mobile and creative technologies The provision of knowledge once a primary role of educators is now devolved to an immense web of free and readily accessible sources Consequently educators need to redefine their role not just from sage on the stage to guide on the side but as more and more voices insist as designers for learning The call for such a repositioning of educators is heard from leaders in the field of technology enhanced learning TEL and resonates well with the growing culture of design based research in Education However it is still struggling to find a foothold in educational practice We contend that the root causes of this discrepancy are the lack of articulation of design practices and methods along with a shortage of tools and representations to support such practices a lack of a culture of teacher as designer among practitioners and insufficient theoretical development The Art and Science of Learning Design ASLD explores the frameworks methods and tools available for teachers technologists and researchers interested in designing for learning Learning Design theories arising from findings of research are explored drawing upon research and practitioner experiences It then surveys current trends in the practices methods and methodologies of Learning Design Highlighting the translation of theory into practice this book showcases some of the latest tools that support the learning design process itself

Renaissance eLearning Samantha Chapnick,Jimm Meloy,2005-05-25 The same people who brought you the most widely used guide to preparing for eLearning are bringing passion back to your learning and training programs The authors culled through over 400 eLearning programs hundreds of popular entertainment pieces and interviews with over 100 people in widely disparate areas to answer a simple question: What will make eLearning have as much impact as popular culture? Renaissance eLearning is the answer. It has everything you need to infuse eLearning with the same magnetism and addictive powers of the typical video game, song, movie, or other form of entertainment. With this book, you will learn how to make emotion and passion as important to eLearning as cognition and intellect. How and why to empower learners to take charge of their own experience. How to get buy-in from stakeholders for alternative and higher return on investment programs. How to apply the same principles and techniques, including narrative and visual design, used by masters over the centuries to grab attention, foster learning, and have a lasting impact on participants. How to get the research and information you need without relying on self-proclaimed gurus and exorbitantly priced analysts. How to find and work with the affordable creative talent needed to make your plans a reality.

Online Worlds: Convergence of the Real and the Virtual William Sims Bainbridge, 2009-12-08. William Sims Bainbridge. Virtual worlds are persistent online computer-generated environments where people can interact, whether for work or play, in a manner comparable to the real world. The most prominent current example is World of Warcraft. Corneliussen and Rettberg, 2008, a massively multiplayer online game with 11 million subscribers. Some other virtual worlds, notably Second Life. Rymaszewski et al., 2007, are not games at all but Internet-based collaboration contexts in which people can create virtual objects, simulated architecture, and working groups. Although interest in virtual worlds has been growing for at least a dozen years, only today it is possible to bring together an international team of highly accomplished authors to examine them with both care and excitement, employing a range of theories and methodologies to discover the principles that are making virtual worlds increasingly popular and may in the future establish them as a major sector of human-centered computing.
