The River of Heaven Robert Aitken,2011-05-01 In this his final work American senior Zen Roshi Robert Aitken lovingly ties together two threads Zen practice and haiku Spirituality Health Known to many as the study of quiet stillness and introspection Zen Buddhism distinguishes itself through brilliant flashes of insight and its terseness of expression In River of Heaven these concepts and pillars lend themselves to an exploration of Haiku one of the most delicate and interpretive poetic forms in the world The haiku verse form with its rigid structure and organic description is a superb means of studying Zen modes of thought because its seventeen syllables impose a limitation that confines the poet to vital experience In Haiku as in Buddhism the silences are as expressive as the words In this volume American Senior Zen Roshi Robert Aitken gives new insight into Haiku by poetic masters Basho Issa Buson and Shiki In presenting themes from Haiku and from Zen literature Aitken illuminates the relationship between the two Readers are certain to find this an invaluable and enjoyable experience for the remarkable revelation it offers I am grateful for Robert Aitken s enthusiastic sharing of poems in The River of Heaven together with his rich personal and cultural perspectives It is a book where the author joyfully calls each of us as readers to share in the transcendent joys of haiku Juxtapositions Aitken mines the meanings in these brief gems about nature impermanence travel awareness silence beauty being present the turn of the seasons and much more verse and paintings of the brilliant innovative artist Yosa Buson 1716-1783 as a focal point from which to explore how Japanese writers competed for artistic authority in a time when popular responses to economic technological and social changes were creating the beginnings of a modern literature. The first part of the book discusses Buson's role in the Basho Revival movement, situating his haikai in the context of the social networks that writers of his time both relied on and resisted. The second part explores Buson's hokku, linked verse, and haiga haikai painting. The book concludes with a discussion of Buson's reception in the modern period and includes translations of his principal works. Looking for Luna Tim Myers, 2009. The International Appalachian Trail runs north from Mount Katahdin, seven hundred miles to the end of the Gasp Peninsula. Inspired by Basho, Ian Marshall hiked it for six summers, probing the poetics of haiku while exploring a vast and beautiful wilderness little known in the US. Marshall is an engaging trail companion and a superb story teller with a self-deprecating wit and sharp intellect that spice up his observations and ideas. Like Basho, he finds the miraculous in the common and elevates the humble walk into a spiritual practice, sprinkling his narrative with lovely original haiku that seem to have condensed in the moment like droplets of dew Backpackers will appreciate his pungent descriptions of life on the trail and ecocritics will savor his abundant insights on poetry nature and culture This lively book serves up a classic blend of high adventure literary pilgrimage and self discovery It tastes as tart and fresh as wild raspberries John Tallmadge past president of the Association for the Study of Literature and Environment and author of The Cincinnati Arch Learning from Nature in the City
