theories of genre and spectatorship in light of a critic defined tendency in recent art cinema coined extreme cinema In Genre Trouble and Extreme Cinema Bordun argues that the films of Mexican director Carlos Reygadas and French director Catherine Breillat expand generic classifications Bordun contends that their films make it apparent that genre is not established prior to the viewing of a work but is recollected and assembled by spectators in ways that matter for them in both personal and experiential terms The author deploys contemporary film theories on the senses both phenomenological and affect theory and partakes in close readings of the films forms and narratives The book thus adds to the present literature on extreme cinema and film theory yet sets itself apart by fully deploying genre theory alongside the methodological and stylistic approaches of Stanley Cavell Vivian Sobchack Laura U Marks and Eugenie Brinkema Cinema and the Environment in Eastern Europe Masha Shpolberg, Lukas Brasiskis, 2023-10-13 The annexation of Eastern Europe to the Soviet sphere after World War II dramatically reshaped popular understandings of the natural environment With an eco critical approach Cinema and the Environment in Eastern Europe breaks new ground in documenting how filmmakers increasingly saw cinema as a tool to critique the social and environmental damage of large scale projects from socialist regimes and newly forming capitalist presences New and established scholars with backgrounds across Europe the United States and Australia come together to reflect on how the cultural sphere has and can still play a role in redefining our relationship to nature ...But If a Zombie Apocalypse Did Occur Amy L. Thompson, Antonio S. Thompson, 2015-09-02 Part pop culture trope part hypothetical cataclysm the zombie apocalypse is rooted in modern literature film and mythology This collection of new essays considers the implications of this scientifically impossible but perhaps imminent event examining real world responses to pandemic contagion and civic chaos as well as those from Hollywood and popular culture The contributors discuss the zombie apocalypse as a metaphor for actual catastrophes and estimate the probabilities of human survival and behavior during an undead invasion Teaching Film Lucy Fischer, Patrice Petro, 2012-07-27 Film studies has been a part of higher education curricula in the United States almost since the development of the medium Although the study of film is dispersed across a range of academic departments programs and scholarly organizations film studies has come to be recognized as a field in its own right In an era when teaching and scholarship are increasingly interdisciplinary film studies continues to expand and thrive attracting new scholars and fresh ideas direction and research Given the dynamism of the field experienced and beginning instructors alike need resources for bringing the study of film into the classroom This volume will help instructors conceptualize contemporary film studies in pedagogical terms The first part of the volume features essays on theory and on representation including gender race and sexuality Contributors then examine the geographies of cinema and offer practical suggestions for structuring courses on national regional and transnational film Several essays focus on interdisciplinary approaches while others describe courses designed around genre film noir the musical mode animation documentary avant garde film or the formal elements of film such as sound music and mise en scene
