Care at the End of the World Jina B. Kim, 2025-03-21 In Care at the End of the World Jina B Kim develops what she calls crip of color critique bringing a disability lens to bear on feminist and queer of color literature in the aftermath of 1996 US welfare reform and the subsequent evisceration of social safety nets She examines literature by contemporary feminist queer and disabled writers of color such as Jesmyn Ward Octavia Butler Karen Tei Yamashita Samuel Delany and Aurora Levins Morales who each bring disability and dependency to the forefront of their literary freedom dreaming Kim shows that in their writing liberation does not take the shape of the unfettered individual or hinge on achieving independence Instead liberation emerges by recuperating dependency cultivating radical interdependency and recognizing the numerous support systems upon which survival depends At the same time Kim demonstrates how theories and narratives of disability can intervene into state authored myths of resource parasitism such as the welfare queen In so doing she highlights the alternate structures of care these writers envision and their dreams of life organized around reciprocity and mutual support Duke University Press Scholars of Color First Book Award

Critical Disaster Studies Jacob A.C. Remes, Andy Horowitz, 2021-08-20 This book announces the new interdisciplinary field of critical disaster studies Unlike most existing approaches to disaster critical disaster studies begins with the idea that disasters are not objective facts but rather are interpretive fictions and they shape the way people see the world By questioning the concept of disaster itself critical disaster studies reveals the stakes of defining people or places as vulnerable resilient or at risk As social constructs disaster vulnerability resilience and risk shape and are shaped by contests over power Managers and technocrats often herald the goals of disaster response and recovery as objective quantifiable or self evident In reality the goals are subjective and usually contested Critical disaster studies attends to the ways powerful people often use claims of technocratic expertise to maintain power Moreover rather than existing as isolated events disasters take place over time People commonly imagine disasters to be unexpected and sudden making structural conditions appear contingent widespread conditions appear local and chronic conditions appear acute By placing disasters in broader contexts critical disaster studies peels away that veneer With chapters by scholars of five continents and seven disciplines Critical Disaster Studies asks how disasters come to be known as disasters how disasters are used as tools of governance and politics and how people imagine and anticipate disasters The volume will be of interest to scholars of disaster in any discipline and especially to those teaching the growing number of courses on disaster studies

Conversations with Jesmyn Ward Kemeshia Randle Swanson, 2025-08-21 Jesmyn Ward b 1977 is arguably one of today's most important authors. Although often compared to William Faulkner, Ward and her writings have done anything but live in that shadow. Since the 2008 debut of her first novel Where the Line Bleeds, she has produced four novels and a memoir that are equally harrowing and heartening, and she is the recipient of numerous major literary awards and fellowships, including two National Book Awards for Salvage the Bones (2011) and Sing Unburied, Sing (2017). Spanning from 2009 to the present, the interviews collected in Conversations with Jesmyn Ward display a master artist with a poetic command for words. Ward's personality and writing style could be characterized as gentle, passionate, fastidious, queer, and brutally honest, as her soft-spoken voice and lyrical prose express a passion for the world so large and consuming that it often emanates as rage or sadness but always leaves readers with a bit of hope. She speaks at length about grief, her writing process, and a love-hate relationship with her home state of Mississippi and the South, as well as the influence that her family, hip-hop music, and culture, and vigorous childhood reading have on her writing.

Climate Change in Popular Culture James Craig Holte, 2022-06-17 An invaluable resource for general readers investigating climate change, this book examines the impact of climate change on popular culture and analyzes how writers and directors treat the disasters caused by climate change in their novels and films. Climate Change in Popular Culture: A Warming World in the American Imagination is the first study that includes analyses of both fiction and popular nonfiction works devoted to climate change. In addition, the book examines a number of classic works from the perspective of the growing field of climate change literature and includes a brief history of climate change science as well as basic scientific definitions, all intended for general readers. The text provides an introduction to the science, politics, and economics of climate change. It also includes both historical overviews and potential probable futures projected by leading climate scientists and environmental writers. In addition, the text looks at how such creative writers and directors as Margaret Atwood, John Steinbeck, Paulo Bacigalupi, Kim Stanley Robinson, T. C. Boyle, Michael Crichton, and Octavia Butler, among others, have used the disasters caused by climate change in their work.

Ten Years after Katrina Mary Ruth Marotte, Glenn Jellenik, 2014-12-18 Hurricane Katrina blasted the Gulf Coast in 2005 leaving an unparalleled trail of physical destruction In addition to that damage the storm wrought massive psychological and cultural trauma on Gulf Coast residents and on America as a whole Details of the devastation were quickly reported and misreported by media outlets and a slew of articles and books followed offering a spectrum of socio political commentaries and analyses But beyond the reportage and the commentary a series of fictional and creative accounts of the Katrina experience have emerged in various mediums novels plays films television shows songs graphic novels collections of photographs and works of creative non fiction that blur the lines between reportage memoir and poetry The creative outpouring brings to mind Salman Rushdie's observation that Man is the storytelling animal the only creature on earth that tells itself stories to understand what kind of creature it is This book accepts the urge behind Rushdie's formula humans tell stories in order to understand ourselves our world and our place in it Indeed the creative output on Katrina represents efforts to construct a cohesive narrative out of the wreckage of a cataclysmic event However this book goes further than merely cataloguing the ways that Katrina narratives support Rushdie's rich claim This collection represents a concentrated attempt to chart the effects of Katrina on our cultural identity it seeks to not merely catalogue the trauma of the event but to explore the ways that such an event functions in and on the literature that represents it The body of work that sprung out of Katrina offers a unique critical opportunity to better understand the genres that structure our stories and the ways stories reflect and produce culture and identity These essays raise new questions about the representative genres themselves The stories are efforts to represent and understand the human condition but so are the organizing principles that communicate the stories That is Katrina narratives present an opportunity to interrogate the ways that specific narrative structures inform our understanding and develop our cultural identity This book offers a critical processing of the newly emerging and diverse canon of Katrina texts
