From Text to 'Lived' Resources Ghislaine Gueudet, Birgit Pepin, Luc Trouche, 2011-09-06. What kinds of curriculum materials do mathematics teachers select and use and how? This question is complex in a period of deep evolutions of teaching resources with the proficiency of online resources in particular. How do teachers learn from these materials and in which ways do they tailor them for their use and pupil learning? Teachers collect resources, select, transform, share, implement and revise them. Drawing from the French term ing nerie documentaire we call these processes documentation. The literal English translation is to work with documents but the meaning it carries is richer. Documentation refers to the complex and interactive ways that teachers work with resources in class and out of class individually but also collectively.

Catalog Southwestern Indian Polytechnic Institute, Ain't Nobody Be Learnin' Nothin' Caleb Rossiter, 2015-04-01. America's most challenged families are segregated into high poverty schools. Despite a 20 year experiment in nationwide school reform few students make it over the slippery bridge to the middle class. In this book you will meet the students, families, teachers and administrators who struggle inside this failed system and consider proposals to give them a fighting chance. Caleb Rossiter recounts his experiences as a math teacher of African American 9th and 10th graders in the poorest wards of the nation's capital. He describes the obstacles facing teachers who are held accountable for the performance of students whose average skills are years below grade level. Rossiter also a professor of statistics at American University explains how the No Child Left Behind law allows school districts to use so called data driven measures of teacher and even school effectiveness that ignore learning deficiencies and behavior patterns that began before a child's first day in school. These measures violate basic norms of statistical analysis yet are used to make comparisons and draw policy level conclusions. He exposes the pretense of success claimed by school reformers who pressure teachers to award unearned grades and if they won't paper over failure with imitation classes euphemistically termed credit recovery He then offers reasonable solutions that would enable children who attend school ready to learn to be freed from the disruption of poorly socialized peers who can be better served in alternative settings      Mathematical Reviews ,2008
