

CAPSTONE PROJECT FINAL REPORT

1. Introduction

The aim of this capstone project is to create a tutoring assistant which will prove to be effective in helping discrete math students to practice permutation and combination exercises. For the assistant to provide the needed guidance to a student who is struggling, it is needed to take into consideration both mathematical problem that will be solved, as well as the solution that is proposed by the learner.

This tutoring assistant will use a problem generator designed to test the knowledge of the student. This generator is created by another student, Ahmed Fangli, for his capstone project. Fangli's problem generator offers my program with a complete set of exercises prepared into text files, together with a metadata that shows their structure, taking into consideration the agreed on mathematical model which is used commonly in both our projects. My system makes good use of a natural language processing technique in order to parse generated files and further extract the structure of the problems.

2. Steeple Analysis

This highly intelligent assistant for discrete math tutoring is actually a prototype which can be later on developed into a more advanced and widely accessible system which helps students in better understanding and practicing various mathematical concepts that they study in a similar manner in order to work with a human tutor. The software may even be extended to other Math fields, such as Probabilities, Calculus, Chemistry and Physics, etc.

The primarily societal impact of this tutoring assistant is to provide support to one of the 14 Grand Challenges of Engineering. This is defined by the National Engineering Academy, particularly personalized learning. This type of learning is a growing field of interest, especially in

American Catch Paul Greenberg,2014-06-26 INVESTIGATIVE REPORTERS EDITORS Book Award Finalist 2014 Greenberg s breezy engaging style weaves history politics environmental policy and marine biology New Yorker From the acclaimed author of Four Fish and The Omega Principle Paul Greenberg uncovers the tragic unraveling of the nation s seafood supply telling the surprising story of why Americans stopped eating from their own waters in American Catch In 2005 the United States imported five billion pounds of seafood nearly double what we imported twenty years earlier Bizarrely during that same period our seafood exports quadrupled American Catch examines New York oysters Gulf shrimp and Alaskan salmon to reveal how it came to be that 91 percent of the seafood Americans eat is foreign In the 1920s the average New Yorker ate six hundred local oysters a year Today the only edible oysters lie outside city limits Following the trail of environmental desecration Greenberg comes to view the New York City oyster as a reminder of what is lost when local waters are not valued as a food source Farther south a different catastrophe threatens another seafood rich environment When Greenberg visits the Gulf of Mexico he arrives expecting to learn of the Deepwater Horizon oil spill s

lingering effects on shrimpers but instead finds that the more immediate threat to business comes from overseas Asian farmed shrimp cheap abundant and a perfect vehicle for the frying and sauces Americans love have flooded the American market Finally Greenberg visits Bristol Bay Alaska home to the biggest wild sockeye salmon run left in the world A pristine productive fishery Bristol Bay is now at great risk The proposed Pebble Mine project could under mine the very spawning grounds that make this great run possible In his search to discover why this precious renewable resource isn't better protected Greenberg encounters a shocking truth the great majority of Alaskan salmon is sent out of the country much of it to Asia Sockeye salmon is one of the most nutritionally dense animal proteins on the planet yet Americans are shipping it abroad Despite the challenges hope abounds In New York Greenberg connects an oyster restoration project with a vision for how the bivalves might save the city from rising tides In the Gulf shrimpers band together to offer local catch direct to consumers And in Bristol Bay fishermen environmentalists and local Alaskans gather to roadblock Pebble Mine With American Catch Paul Greenberg proposes a way to break the current destructive patterns of consumption and return American catch back to American eaters The Washington Post Americans need to eat more American seafood It's a point Greenberg makes compellingly clear in his new book American Catch The Fight for our Local Seafood Greenberg had at least one convert me Jane Brody New York Times Excellent The Los Angeles Times If this makes it sound like American Catch is another of those dry haranguing issue driven books that you read mostly out of obligation you needn't worry While Greenberg has a firm grasp of the facts he also has a storyteller's knack for framing them in an entertaining way The Guardian UK A wonderful new book Tom Colicchio This is on the top of my summer reading list A Fast Food Nation for fish
