Which Way to Livable and Productive Cities? Kirsten Hommann, Somik V. Lall, 2019-04-18 For African cities to grow economically as they have grown in size they must create productive environments to attract investments increase economic efficiency and create livable environments that prevent urban costs from rising with increased population densification What are the central obstacles that prevent African cities and towns from becoming sustainable engines of economic growth and prosperity Among the most critical factors that limit the growth and livability of urban areas are land markets investments in public infrastructure and assets and the institutions to enable both To unleash the potential of African cities and towns for delivering services and employment in a livable and environmentally friendly environment a sequenced approach is needed to reform institutions and policies and to target infrastructure investments This book lays out three foundations that need fixing to guide cities and towns throughout Sub Saharan Africa on their way to productivity and livability Save and Grow in practice: maize, rice, wheat Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-06-21 FAO's best selling 2011 publication Save and Grow proposed a new paradigm of agriculture one that is both highly productive and environmentally sustainable This new book looks at the application of Save and Grow practices and technologies to production of the world's key food security crops maize rice and wheat With examples drawn from developing countries worldwide it shows how eco friendly farming systems are helping smallholder producers to boost cereal yields improve their incomes and livelihoods conserve natural resources reduce negative impacts on the environment and build resilience to climate change The book will be a valuable reference for policymakers and development practitioners guiding the transition to sustainable food and agriculture The Political Economy of Development and Underdevelopment in Africa Toyin Falola, Jessica Achberger, 2013-06-07 While Africa is too often regarded as lying on the periphery of the global political arena this is not the case African nations have played an important historical role in world affairs It is with this understanding that the authors in this volume set out upon researching and writing their chapters making an important collective contribution to our understanding of modern Africa Taken as a whole the chapters represent the range of research in African development and fully tie this development to the global political economy African nations play significant roles in world politics both as nations influenced by the ebbs and flows of the global economy and by the international political system but also as actors directly influencing politics and economics It is only through an understanding of both the history and present place of Africa in global affairs that we can begin to assess the way forward for future development Reaping Richer Returns Aparajita Goyal, John Nash, 2017-03-10 Enhancing the productivity of agriculture is vital for Sub Saharan Africa's economic future and is one of the most important tools to end extreme poverty and boost shared prosperity in the region How governments elect to spend public resources has significant development impact in this regard Choosing to catalyze a shift toward more effective efficient and climate resilient public spending in agriculture can accelerate change and unleash growth Not only does agricultural public spending in Sub Saharan Africa lag behind other developing regions but its impact is vitiated by subsidy programs and transfers that tend to benefit elites to the detriment of poor people and the agricultural sector itself Shortcomings in the budgeting processes also reduce spending effectiveness In light of this scenario addressing the quality of public spending and the efficiency of resource use becomes even more important than addressing only the level of spending Improvements in the policy environment better institutions and investments in rural public goods positively affect agricultural productivity These combined with smarter use of public funds have helped lay the foundations for agricultural productivity growth around the world resulting in a wealth of important lessons from which African policy makers and development practitioners can draw Reaping Richer Returns Public Spending Priorities for African Agriculture Productivity Growth will be of particular interest to policy makers development practitioners and academics The rigorous analysis presented in this book provides options for reform with a view to boosting the productivity of African agriculture and eventually increasing development impact

Routledge Handbook of African Media and Communication Studies Winston Mano, Viola Milton, 2021-02-11 This handbook comprises fresh and incisive research focusing on African media culture and communication The chapters from a cross section of scholars dissect the forces shaping the field within a changing African context It adds critical corpora of African scholarship and theory that places the everyday worlds needs and uses of Africans first The book goes beyond critiques of the marginality of African approaches in media and communication studies to offer scholars the theoretical and empirical toolkit needed to start building critical corpora of African scholarship and theory that places the everyday worlds needs and uses of Africans first Decoloniality demands new epistemological interventions in African media culture and communication and this book is an important interlocutor in this space In a globally interconnected world changing patterns of authority and power pose new challenges to the ways in which media institutions are constituted and managed as well as how communication and media policy is negotiated and the manner in which citizens engage with increasing media opportunities The handbook focuses on the interrelationships of the local and the global and the concomitant consequences for media practice education and citizen engagement in today's Africa Altogether the book foregrounds convivial epistemologies relevant for locating African media and communication in the pluriverse This handbook is an essential read for critical media communications cultural studies and journalism scholars

Competition Law in Developing Countries Thomas K. Cheng,2020-05-27 This book brings together perspectives of development economics and law to tackle the relationship between competition law enforcement and economic development It addresses the question of whether and how competition law enforcement helps to promote economic growth and development This question is highly pertinent for developing countries largely because many developing countries have only adopted competition law in recent years about thirty jurisdictions had in place a competition law in the early 1980s and there are now more than 130 competition law regimes across the world of which many are developing countries The book proposes a customized approach to competition law enforcement for developing countries set against the background of the academic and policy debate concerning convergence of competition law The implicit premise of convergence is that there may exist one or a few correct approaches to competition law enforcement which in most cases emanate from developed jurisdictions that are applicable to all This book rejects this assumption and argues that developing countries ought to tailor competition law enforcement to their own economic and political circumstances In particular it suggests how competition law enforcement can better incorporate development concerns without causing undue dilution of its traditional focus on protecting consumer welfare It proposes ways in which approaches to competition law enforcement need to be adjusted to reflect the special economic characteristics of developing country economies and the more limited enforcement capacity of developing country competition authorities Finally it also addresses the long running debate concerning the desirability and viability of industrial policy for developing countries The author would like to acknowledge the Research Grants Council of Hong Kong for its generous support The work in this book was fully supported by a grant from the Research Grants Council of Hong Kong Project No HKU 742412H

A Global Impact Shigeki Sakamoto,Takahiro Nanri,2023-11-20 The leprosy

epidemic is slowly but surely fading away says WHO Director General Dr Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus The number of leprosy patients in the world was once in the millions but new cases have declined to around 200 000 a year thanks to the efforts of governments the WHO NGOs and organisations of persons affected by leprosy Amid this changing landscape Yohei Sasakawa has led various initiatives as the World Health Organization's Goodwill Ambassador for Leprosy Elimination and as Chairman of The Nippon Foundation Marking the twentieth anniversary of Mr Sasakawa's appointment as a leprosy elimination ambassador this book recalls the initiatives he has promoted and led and analyses their value and effectiveness with a view to identifying lessons to be learned The volume's expert contributors focus on five themes promoted and driven forward by Mr Sasakawa Eliminating Leprosy as a Public Health Problem Leprosy as a Human Rights Issue the Establishment of the Rights of Primary Stakeholders Expanding the Range of Awareness Raising Activities and Developing New Partners and Leprosy Control in the Post Elimination Era In synthesising and assessing these efforts A Global Impact offers an important contribution to the future elaboration of measures against leprosy and infectious diseases generally □
