

A photograph of a person in a blue shirt and hat sweeping a wide, light-colored stone walkway. The walkway is bordered by a low stone wall on the right. Large, dark tree trunks and dense foliage frame the top and left sides of the image. In the background, a body of water is visible with a few people and a dog. The overall scene is peaceful and suggests a coastal or park setting.

Schultz, 1998-01-01 Anthropology Emily A. Schultz, Robert H. Lavenda, 1996-10-01 Anthropology Robert Louis Welsch, Luis A. Vivanco, Agustín Fuentes, 2016 From the authors who wrote the highly acclaimed Cultural Anthropology Asking Questions About Humanity this ground breaking general anthropology text co written with renowned scholar Agustín Fuentes takes a holistic approach that emphasizes critical thinking active learning and applying anthropology to solve contemporary human problems Building on the classical foundations of the discipline Anthropology Asking Questions About Human Origins Diversity and Culture shows students how anthropology is connected to such current topics as food health and medicine and the environment Full of relevant examples and current topics with a focus on contemporary problems and questions the book demonstrates the diversity and dynamism of anthropology today Anthropology Robert Louis Welsch, Luis Antonio Vivanco, Agustín Fuentes, 2025 Humans are fascinating and complex beings With our large brains flexible diets and ability to get around on two feet evolutionary history has made us different from other primates and facilitated our adaptation to practically any environment on the planet At the same time we are more than our biology and there is nothing we do that does not involve culture which encompasses our capacities for symbolic communication intensive social cooperation intergenerational learning and metaphysical thinking

These points raise some interesting questions What is it about our humanity that distinguishes us from other species What is culture and how does it shape our origins prehistoric pasts and present How do we as humans construct meaningful social worlds What are the reasons for human biological and cultural diversity Such questions are at the core of the study of anthropology

What Is a Human? John H. Evans, 2016-07-01 What is a human Are humans those with human DNA those in possession of traits like rationality or those made in the image of God The debate over what makes human beings unique has raged for centuries Many think that if society accepts the wrong definition of what it is to be human people will look at their neighbor as more of an animal object or machine making maltreatment more likely In the longest running claim for over 150 years critics have claimed that taking a Darwinist definition results in people treating each other more like animals Despite their seriousness these claims have never been empirically investigated In this groundbreaking book John H Evans shows that the definitions promoted by biologists and philosophers actually are associated with less support for human rights Members of the public who agree with these definitions are less willing to sacrifice to stop genocides and are more supportive of buying organs from poor people of experimenting on prisoners against their will and of torturing people to potentially save lives It appears that the critics are right However Evans finds that few Americans agree with these academic definitions Looking at how most of the public defines humanity we see a much more nuanced picture In a fascinating account he shows that the dominant definitions are unlikely to lead to human rights abuses He concludes that the critics are right about the definitions of a human promoted by academic biologists and philosophers and are therefore justified in their vigilance However because at present few Americans agree with these definitions the academic definitions would have to spread much more extensively before impacting how the general public acts Evans book is a major corrective to the more than century long debate about the impact of definitions of a human Anthropology and the Human Subject Brian Morris, 2014 The German philosopher Immanuel Kant famously defined anthropology as the study of what it means to be a human being Following in his footsteps Anthropology and the Human Subject provides a critical comprehensive and wide ranging investigation of conceptions of the human subject within the Western intellectual tradition focusing specifically on the secular trends of the twentieth century Encyclopaedic in scope lucidly and engagingly written the book covers the man and varied currents of thought within this tradition Each chapter deals with a specific intellectual paradigm ranging from Marx's historical materialism and Darwin's evolutionary naturalism and their various off shoots through to those currents of thought that were prominent in the late twentieth century such as for example existentialism hermeneutics phenomenology and poststructuralism With respect to each current of thought a focus is placed on their main exemplars outlining their biographical context their mode of social analysis and the ontology of the subject that emerges from their key texts The book will appeal not only to anthropologists but to students and scholars within the human sciences and philosophy as well as to any person interested in the question What does it mean to be human Ambitious in scope and encyclopaedic in execution his style is always lucid He makes difficult work accessible His prose conveys the unmistakable impression of a superb and meticulous lecturer at work Anthony P Cohen Journal Royal Anthropological Institute There is a very little I can add to the outstanding criticism Brian Morris levels at deep ecology Insightful as well as incisive I have found his writings an educational experience Murray Bookchin Institute of Social Ecology     The Human Way Colin M.
