

The book cover features a collage of images related to electrical engineering and electronics. At the top left, there's a close-up of a circuit board with various components. To its right, a small model of a white aircraft is shown. Below the aircraft, a large high-voltage electrical transmission tower stands against a blue sky. In the bottom left, a person's hands are visible typing on a laptop keyboard, with the laptop screen displaying some data. The entire cover is divided into a light grey curved section on the left where the title and author are placed, and a dark blue section on the right.
